Zero Blasts, More Snow Due Tonight

Mercury In 14-Degree Plunge; Four Schools Remain Closed.

With the temperature dropping 14 degrees in the past 12 hours and a still colder wave predicted, four Richland county schools were closed today with school officials and bus drivers standing by observingly at the five schools that were in session.

Clyde Moore, county highway maintenance superintendent, advised Superintendent Boyd Robinson this morning that the county roads were drifting faster than highway workmen could clear them and that, in his opinion, school buses should be called to return the children to their homes while it was still possible.

Practically all equipment of the city, county and state road crews were kept busy today with some plowing snow while others scattered cinders and salt.

Tonight's forecast was for more blowing snow, strong winds and lower temperatures which might reach the zero mark, according to the state weatherman. One-half inch of snow fell early today. Temperature at noon stood at 10 above, according to Mansfield's weatherman.

Schools that remained closed today were Madison, Union, Bellville and Butler.

Shiloh and Plymouth schools, the only ones in the county which remained open yesterday, were having classes again today while schools at Springfield, Lucas, Lexington, Bellville and Butler, which were closed yesterday, reopened today. It was in these villages that bus drivers maintained hourly vigilance concerning the weather conditions, with removal of children expected to take place sooner than the usual closing hours of the schools, according to Superintendent Boyd Robinson.

Robinson said he had issued no blanket orders closing the schools but that he had instructed school superintendents and bus drivers to regulate their local situations with a view to safety of the school children.

Meanwhile reports came from all sections of the state and middle west of the rampages of Old Man Winter.

Despite the hazardous condition of highways and streets, no accidents had been reported to noon today. Many cars and trucks were experiencing difficulty on hills with the result that cinder supplies were diminishing rapidly.

GAS CAR AFIRE

Thousands of Gallons Lost In Ashland Blaze.

ASHLAND—Thousands of gallons of gasoline were lost in flames when a tank car in an Erie railroad train was derailed near the Cottage street crossing today by a broken rail.

While dense clouds of smoke rolled over the city, trainmen moved all other cars but one to safety. The stranded tanker was not ignited by flames flashing from the overturned car, stiff winds carrying them in an opposite direction. Huge crowds gathered to watch the blaze.

Erie officials immediately began an investigation into the probable cause of the broken rail. The train was en route to eastern cities which are suffering from drastic motor fuel rationing.

WILL CONFER

Bricker, Nelson to Study Ohio Time Change Proposal.

COLUMBUS — (UP) — Don C. Power, Governor Bricker's secretary, said today that the governor will confer with War Production board chairman Donald Nelson regarding wartime in Ohio when they meet at Baltimore next Monday and Tuesday at a meeting of the council of state governments.

Bricker will address the annual meeting of the Bar association at New York Saturday night before going to Baltimore.

DISEASE REAPPEARS

CLEVELAND—(INS)—Harold J. Knapp, Cleveland health commissioner reported one new diarrhea case in a newborn baby and that two other infants were under observation as suspected victims. Last October a score of babies died from a similar malady.

'Mom' Shows Just How It's Done

The war put a ban on baker-sliced bread yesterday, and up popped a new problem for housewives of the younger age bracket, most of whom had never had to slice a loaf of bread. They found they could do it, but that their efforts lacked something in uniformity. A lot of them could learn from mother - or maybe mother-in-law - about how it was done in the old days. Here Mrs. Paul H. Bader, Zediker apartments, Blymyer avenue, poses as the young wife learning how to slice bread neatly. Her mother-in-law, Mrs. Paul C. Bader, 209 Richland avenue, poses as the expert. (Notice the difference in the way the two loaves are sliced.) Incidentally there's been a run on bread knives at hardware stores since the ban on sliced bread was announced some stores reporting that their supplies were practically exhausted. And a sharp knife's vital to uniform bread slicing.

REDDING TO BE RENT DIRECTOR

Appointment of Mansfield Architect Made Known By OPA Director.

Lester Redding Mansfield architect, today was named area rent control director under the Office of Price Administration.

His appointment was announced by Birkett L. Williams, Cleveland, regional OPA director, who was here to address a joint meeting of the Rotary, Kiwanis, Gyro and other civic clubs.

Redding will fill the vacancy left by the resignation of LeRoy B. Hamilton, which came within two weeks after the area rent office was opened. The area covers Richland, Crawford and Ashland counties.

Since Hamilton's resignation, the office has been filled by Morton Hayman, from the Cleveland OPA office.

Redding was formerly associated with the HOLC when Henry

Bates Changes Mind, Decides To Stay As Chief Of Police

The off-again, on-again, police chief situation involving Meade K. Bates, who is developing into a sort of here I am, there I go person, took another turn today.

After asking last Saturday for a second year's leave to permit his return to the FBI as a special agent, Bates yesterday submitted a new letter asking only a 30-day leave to permit him to wind up his affairs with the bureau before returning to Mansfield to permanently resume his position as police chief.

Today, after the city Civil Service commission last night had granted the 30-day leave and cancelled promotional examinations in the police department, it was indicated that Mayor William J. Locke had taken a "behind the scenes" hand in the situation.

Police department members reported that they had been asked to sign a petition, which they said was circulated at the instigation of the mayor, and also addressed to him, describing Bates as indispensable to the police department.

It was explained that the mayor then planned to write to the FBI, reporting the presence of the petition and asking for Bates' return on the basis of a request of men in the department, rather than making the request himself.

It seemed obvious that Bates knew something of such a move, since he had changed his request for a leave before the petition appeared.

It could not be learned how

PROFIT DROPS

Seamless Tube Reports $702,404 Net For Past Year.

SHELBY—The Ohio Seamless Tube company had a net profit of $702,404.02 for the fiscal year of 1942, as compared with $763,540.17 for 1941, W. C. Connelly, president and general manager, disclosed today.

Although the dollar volume of business shipped during 1942 was the largest in the history of the company, the taxes cut down the net profit.

The federal excess profits tax increased from $1,115,000 in 1941 to $1,858,000 for 1942, while the federal normal tax, surtax and declared value excess profits tax amounted to $372,000 last year and $370,000 in 1941.

Dividends amounted to $1.75 a share on prior preference stock, $7 per share on preferred stock and $2.60 on common stock during the year.

24 Churches Pledge Support To City's Religious Census

Twenty-four Mansfield churches pledged their support to the Mansfield Religious Census last night by guaranteeing 1,400 workers for the actual census-taking and $600 towards the $800 budget required for the project.

Pledges were made by the cooperating ministers at a meeting in the Chamber of Commerce rooms called by the census executive committee to determine the number of participants in the undertaking as well as the financial responsibility each church would assume.

The remainder of the 52 churches in the city which have not yet indicated their cooperation in the campaign have until the last of this week to do so, Ralph Stanton, general chairman, said. Churches pledging their support last night represent at least 60 per cent of the church membership of the city.

Stanton pointed out that at least 2,400 workers are to participate in the drive and they will be given special training at a session scheduled next week. Leaders of the drive will meet for instruction Tuesday night, Jan. 26, in the Chamber of Commerce rooms and workers will meet the

Belief Prevailing That Any New Protests Will Get Little Consideration.

GETS OFFICIAL WORD

McGregor Given Official Word on Project; Name Change to Parsel Depot Likely.

The flurry of excitement surrounding the projected air force supply depot near Shelby had subsided today, at least for the time being.

Congressman J. Harry McGregor revealed today that he had received official confirmation from the war department on the selection of the site, following up the verbal announcement given him last Friday.

The confirmation came from Major General W. G. Styer, headquarters, Service of Supply of the army.

It was believed that any protest now, such as that Shelby industrial leaders planned to make in Washington tomorrow, and then suddenly abandoned, would receive little consideration.

However, a Shelby campaign to change the name of the depot from "Mansfield Air Force Supply Depot" to "Parsel Air Force Supply Depot" seemed likely to succeed.

Congressman McGregor said today that approval of the change had been given by Major Wilson Higgins, head of the engineer corps, Huntington, W. Va., in direct charge of construction of the depot and that recommendation for the change had gone to Col. S. Trubee Davison, president of the Army Air Force Naming board in Washington.

Various groups in Shelby had voiced objections to designating the depot as the "Mansfield depot" and had favored naming it for the late Capt. Elmer Parsel, Plymouth, who was killed in a bomber plane crash in India after an illustrious flying career in the Pacific in the early days of the war, for which he was post-humously decorated.

No opposition to such a move was apparent in Mansfield, the general reaction being that the important thing was the construction of the depot, while some expressed the belief that it would be quite fitting to name the depot for Capt. Parsel.

Meanwhile, Shelby council at its meeting last night took action to regulate use of trailers as residences, in anticipation of the pos-

OPPOSE FLYNN

Styles Says Dems Will Vote Against FDR Appointee.

WASHINGTON—(INS)—Sen. H. Styles Bridge (R., N. H.) today said that some Democratic senators have privately disclosed their intention of voting against confirmation of the nomination of Edward J. Flynn, resigned chairman of the Democratic national committee, to be minister to Australia.

"This is not a political matter although some people are trying to make it appear to be one," said Bridges. "I have been informed that some Democratic senators have decided to vote against him."

Flynn returned to Washington from the Chicago Democratic national committee meeting to appear at the senate foreign relations committee hearing which opens tomorrow.

URGE PASSAGE

Senators Approve Bill to Pay Off School Foundation Debt.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The senate finance committee recommended today swift passage of a bill to pay off a remaining debt of $6,274,000 in the school foundation program. The vote was unanimous.

Sen. Fred R. Seibert (R-Augalize), chairman of the committee, said the bill might be pushed through the senate today under suspension of rules.

CIVIL WAR VET DIES

Russians Break 17-Month Siege Of Leningrad

Kill 13,000 Nazis To Capture Ancient Fortress Of Schluesselburg As Allies Take Vital Jap Posts At Sanananda On New Guinea.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The navy announced today that American submarines had sunk an enemy destroyer and four other ships—three cargo ships and a patrol vessel—in the Pacific.

(Bu Associated Press)

Allied sledgehammer blows shook the Axis on three fronts in World War II today.

1. In Libya, the British Eighth army was reported "in contact" with Field Marshal Erwin Rommel's battered Africa Corps near Tarhuna, only 40 miles from the big Axis base at Tripoli, after a lightning advance inland across the desert.

A Second British column striking along the coastal road had passed through the enemy strongholds at Misurata and Garibaldi and reached Zliten, 90 miles east of Tripoli.

Once again, it appeared, Rommel was in headlong retreat with Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's army in hot pursuit.

2. In Russia, the Red armies of the north lifted the epic 17-months-old siege of Leningrad, former czarist capital, after recapturing the ancient Nazi-held fortress of Schluesselburg, killing 13,000 Germans, routing four divisions and demolishing 470 enemy strongpoints.

Schluesselburg lies 22 miles east of Leningrad on the south shore of Lake Ladoga.

At the same time, Russia's southern armies surged forward within 108 miles of Kharkov, the "Ukraine Pittsburgh," killed 2,600 more Germans in 24 hours in the battle to annihilate 50,000 survivors of the Nazi siege armies before Stalingrad, and sharply increased the threat to the great German base at Rostov.

3. In New Guinea, Allied field headquarters announced that American and Australian troops had captured two vital Japanese strongholds—Sanananda Point and Sanananda village—in the closing phases of a drive to exterminate the remnants of a 15,000-man Japanese army.

Allied seizure of the coastal end of the enemy-held Papuan corridor left the remaining enemy forces in three tightly-enveloped pockets half a mile to two miles inland.

On the Libyan front, British headquarters announced that Gen. Montgomery's forces were now attacking the Axis "toward Tarhuna," 40 miles from Tripoli, after routing the enemy from Beni Ulid and inflicting losses in a tank battle.

Beni Ulid lies 100 miles southeast of Tripoli.

Dispatches from Cairo said British vanguards were now within 50 miles of Tripoli, or closer than Rommel came to success in his threatening drive toward Alexandria and the Suez canal last summer.

Italian headquarters said Tripoli itself was under violent Allied aerial assault, with repeated raids inflicting great property damage and killing numerous civilians.

The Fascist communique said Italian and German troops "offered fierce resistance to persist-

CONFIDENT: Atlee Reviews War Situation For Commons

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—Clement R. Attlee, deputy prime minister, told the opening session of parliament today Great Britain could "look forward to 1943 with justifiable confidence," and that the successes scored by the Allied nations last year were to be viewed with "sober satisfaction."

In a brief statement on the war situation pending an anticipated complete review by Prime Minister Churchill within the next few days, Attlee lauded the "wonderful achievements" of the Russian army.

Describing the Allied objective in North Africa as total destruction of enemy forces, he told commons that bad weather in Tunisia had restricted movement of motorized forces and had "seriously affected the provision of airfields."

Referring to reports of differences between the British and Americans over the political line-up in North Africa, Attlee declared it was only natural that French affairs should not appear in the same light to the two Allied nations, but added that "such variations of outlook . . . ought not be exaggerated."

Turning to the war in the southwest Pacific, the deputy leader said the government "is conscious there is an accumulation of Japanese forces at Rabaul (on New

COACHED?: Nazi Prisoners Say No, But Their Answers Say Yes

By EDDY GILMORE

WITH THE RED ARMY SOUTHEAST OF ROSTOV—(Delayed)—(AP)—The German flier came into the little house on the front dressed in a natty but soiled sky blue uniform with his head high. He bowed with mock politeness and sat down stiffly.

He was a perfect Hollywood type of the Nazi officer—piercing blue eyes with great white spaces around them, skin drawn tightly over his sharp face bones, sharp chin and a thin pointed nose.

He admitted he belonged to a Nazi party organization.

I asked the Russians what we could ask him.

"Whatever you want," their colonel answered.

I asked him what effect he thought the United States is having on the outcome of the war.

"None!" he shot back. "The African operation doesn't mean anything. Rommel has lost a little, but in this war you have to lose a little. He'll come back."

I asked him why the Germans are retreating. "We underestimated the Russian strength," he said, "but all will be well next summer."

I quoted some United States and British production figures on war materials.

"Exaggerations!" he leered.

I suggested the United States is getting into full production and soon will throw it all against Germany and her Allies.

"You'll never get your stuff to Europe," he said, and all but laughed. "Then soon you will get tired."

When someone asked if he realized that in Germany a prisoner like himself might be shot, he said:

"You can shoot me."

I asked him what he thought

SOLDIERS HAVE KANGAROO SOUP

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA —(INS)— With doughboys stationed in Australia's back country, kangaroo hunting is the favorite (and only) recreation.

It is a profitable one, for the hides make beautiful rugs, while soup made from the powerful tail is a real delicacy.

Major Monroe Bloomenstiel, of Rochester, N. Y., claims the biggest 'roo yet bagged: it measured 10 feet from nose to tail.

His unit had soup for a week.

NEW TRANSPORT PLANE

LONDON —(INS)— A new German transport plane, reported to be in use for bringing artillery and munitions right up to the front line in Russia, is believed here to be a rebuilt glider, similar to the Gotha GO 242. Italian press descriptions of the plane stress the heavy loads it can carry and its ability to land "in about 100 yards on any type of ground."

SOHIO'S WARTIME CALENDAR FOR CAR OWNERS
To help keep you straight on ration dates and other things of importance to your Car

LAST day to use your No. 3 gas coupons!
Just a reminder—in case you're lucky enough to have any coupons left. Under the rationing regulations, all gasoline coupons marked with the number 3 expire at midnight, Jan. 21, and we dealers can't accept them after that time.

TIME for an oil change and lube job, too!

Now that you're driving slower and making just short trips, you probably figure that you don't have to pay so much attention to changing oil and having your car greased. But it doesn't work out that way. You see, nowadays your motor doesn't get hot enough to boil off the moisture that's formed when the gas burns, so a lot more water stays in the motor oil, increasing sludge and other harmful substances.
Also the lubricants that protect the chassis get hard and stiff and dirty—are affected by time, as well as mileage.
So the only safe thing is to change oil and have your car lubricated regularly—every time you change to a new coupon number. And it's wise to insist on products and service you know are dependable—SOHIO Motor Oil and famous SOHIO Point-by-Point Lubrication.

NEW DEADLINE for first official O. P. A. tire inspection
The whole idea of Mileage Rationing is to keep our cars running. That's why the regulations require regular tire inspection at an Official O. P. A. Inspection Station.
These Official Inspections help spot trouble before it gets serious. The important thing is to get the inspections during the periods when they're required. Otherwise, even though you're eligible for tires, you won't be able to get them—or gas either.

AVOID the rush! Have your tires inspected NOW!
Save time, trouble and gas by going to your nearby SOHIO Station displaying the SOHIO Tire Inspection Banner!

CONVENIENT SOHIO DEALERS AND STATIONS ARE SET UP TO HANDLE ALL YOUR TIRE PROBLEMS
Most SOHIO Dealers and Service Stations are authorized as Official Tire Inspection Stations. Wherever you go, there's always one handy. You'll find it more convenient to go to SOHIO because, in addition to official inspection, SOHIO Stations are equipped to take care of all your other tire needs. This saves you time, trouble and gas. Drive in today and avoid the last-minute rush!

"SOHIO'S So Handy—Everything in One Stop"

Today your car is just as much a part of America's Fighting Force as our ships or our railroads. It is transportation that America needs to win! We're ready to help in every possible way to keep your car running!

MORE FREE SOHIO RATION BOOK HOLDERS WILL BE READY SOON!
Soon now there will be plenty of these handy ration book and tire inspection record holders available at Sohio. Free, of course. The first quarter-of-a-million went like hot cakes and we've had to reorder. So, if you will be patient for a few days, there will be one for you just for the asking. Your Sohio Dealer wants you to have one because it protects these important papers . . . and you always know just where they are. Don't forget to ask.

STUDY CLUB MEMBERS HAVE ANNUAL PARTY

Miss Helen Bein and Mrs. Dwight A. Weir Hostesses For Mid-Winter Party In Colonial Room Monday Night.

THE COLONIAL ROOM on Park avenue west was the scene of a delightful affair Monday evening, when members of the Monday Study club enjoyed their annual mid-winter party.

Miss Helen Bein and Mrs. Dwight A. Weir were hostesses for the spaghetti dinner served early in the evening to the 24 members and one guest, Mrs Eugene Renwick, of Arlington, Va., an active member of the club before moving out of town. Mrs Renwick is visiting her parents, Mr and Mrs L. R. Wittemire, 109 Columbia avenue

Games engaged the group during the evening, with prizes being won by Mrs Carlton Fernyak, Mrs. Lloyd Brown, Mrs M. K. Leggett and Mrs W E Slabaugh. Mrs R. A. Rowlands was the recipient of the door prize.

The next regular meeting of the club will be Feb. 1, at the home of Mrs. William Bloor, Braeburn road, with Miss Florence Conn assisting. Mrs. Dorothy Thorne will have the program at the meeting on "Who's Who In Ohio."

Delta Theta Tau Honors Members Leaving The City

The Zeta Rho chapter of Delta Theta Tau sorority honored two of its members who are leaving Mansfield in the near future at a social meeting of the group Monday evening at the home of Miss Betty Jane Yuncker, 642 West Fourth street.

The members who were guests of honor were Miss Margaret Strickler, president of the chapter, who leaves for her training in the WAVE's, and Miss Donna Whiteman, who will be married in February to Sgt. Robert H. Boyd, who is stationed in Columbus.

Prizes in bridge were awarded to Miss Bertha Jesson and Miss Whiteman. Associate hostesses were the Misses Anna Jane Lloyd and Juanita Miller.

A buffet luncheon was served at a long table attractively decorated in a novel manner. One side of the table was decorated in Miss Strickler's honor, with red, white and blue streamers and a WAVE, and the other side, in honor of Miss Whiteman, was a bridal procession and white streamers. Gifts were presented to both honorees.

The next meeting of the chapter will be a business meeting in the club rooms on Park avenue west. That meeting, Feb. 1, will be in charge of Miss Yuncker, vice president, who will assume the president's duties.

COUPLE WEDS

ASHLAND — Marriage of Miss Cleo Westaver, daughter of Mr and Mrs J. H. Westaver of Ashland to C. Fulton Timanus of Norwalk was solemnized Saturday at the Methodist parsonage here with Rev. Frank L. Hicks officiating at the double ring ceremony in the presence of the immediate families of the couple.

After a brief wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Timanus will make their home in Norwalk. The bridegroom is an employe of the precision instrument department at the Plumbrook ordnance plant.

Your Federal Income Tax

NO. 14: NORMAL TAX AND SURTAX

The Federal income tax payable on the taxable income is divided into two parts, known as normal tax and surtax. The sum of these two taxes, in all ordinary cases, represents the total tax due. The exceptions arise in cases where there have been specified capital gains or losses, in which case an alternative computation is permitted, provided there are net long-term capital gains in excess of net short-term capital losses, or in cases where the taxpayer holds bonds with a tax-free covenant (bonds in which the issuing corporation pays part of the income tax on the interest), in which case a deduction of the amount paid by the corporation is allowable against the tax computed on the return

The surtax is computed at variable rates, depending upon the amount of the surtax net income. The surtax net income is the amount of the net income of the taxpayer (gross income less deductions) less the personal exemption and the credit for dependents. This is the amount shown on line 23 of the income tax return, Form 1040.

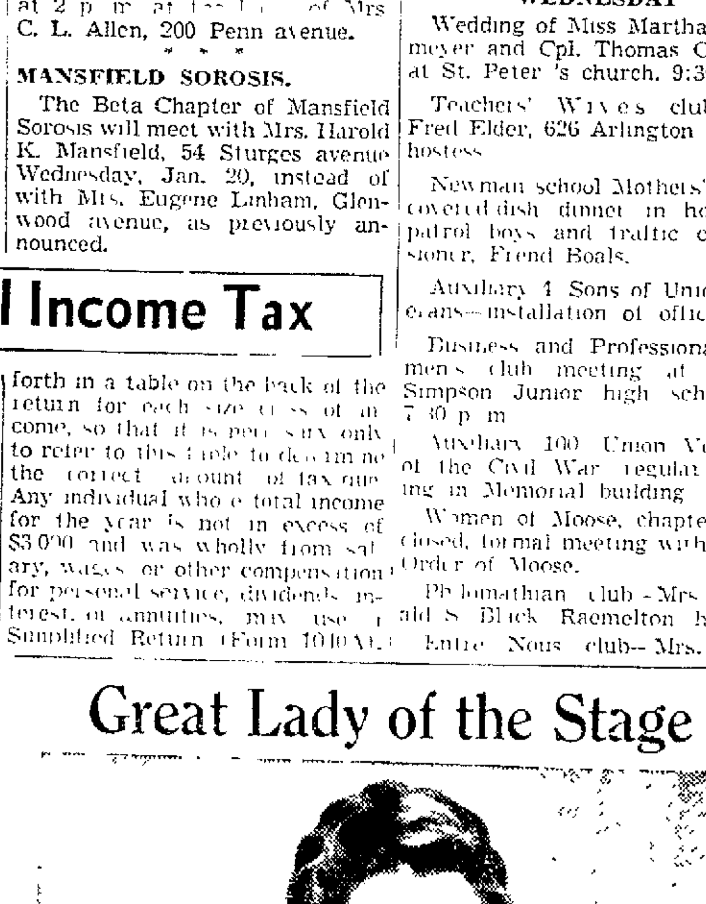

On the first $2,000 of surtax net income, the surtax is 13 per cent of the surtax net income On surtax net income over $2,000 and not over $4,000, the surtax is $260 plus 16 per cent of the surtax net income above $2,000. On surtax net income over $4,000 and not over $6,000, the surtax is $580 plus 20 per cent of the amount of surtax net income above $4,000. The rate increases as the amount of surtax net income increases. The computation of the [illegible] for each income block is given [illegible] table accompanying the [illegible] form.

GUILD MEMBERS HEAR ABOUT SOUTH AMERICA

Mrs. Ethelouise Carpenter, Country Day School Teacher, Is Guest Speaker at Monday Night Meeting.

PRESENT rationing does not bother Mrs. Ethelouise Carpenter, teacher at Country Day school, after living at LaPaz, located in Bolivia, South America, for one year, it was learned yesterday, when she gave an interesting talk on her experiences to members of the Central Methodist guild.

Mrs. Carpenter told that while living in LaPaz during the year 1940, she went for weeks without coffee, tea, sugar and meats and paid as high at $1.25 for a can of peaches.

Although living conditions were not the most convenient or sanitary, Mrs. Carpenter stated that she hated to leave LaPaz, with its picturesque markets and people so different from those in this country. She told that LaPaz has an altitude of 12,000 feet and is surrounded by higher Andes mountains; that there the full moon seems three times as large as it is here. Indians make up 85 per cent of the population.

Colored pictures, shown by Mrs Carpenter, included the South Carnival parade, in which the Indians wear beautiful costumes and perform the snake dance; views of Lake Titicaca; Mt. Illimani; Mt. Chacaltya, having the highest ski tow in the world, and her trip over the western range of the Andes mountains into a jungle gold mine, in a tri-motored freight plane.

Mrs. Ray Paulson, president, appointed Mrs. A. J. Hill and Mrs. R. B. Hollaway to take charge of collecting sales tax and postage stamps. "Missions In Other Americas" was the topic of the devotions given by Mrs. Gilmore Hiett.

The hostess, Mrs. Harry Iler, 603 Arlington avenue, was assisted by Mrs. E. Ray Jenkins, Mrs. E. C. Frampton, Mrs. L. F. Rondel and Mrs George Sherman. Refreshments were served to 29 members from a candle-illuminated table, centered with a snow and ice creation. Mrs. Paulson poured.

Mrs. Stanley Harper, 189 Cline avenue, will entertain at the next meeting.

'SET' PARALYSIS

ASHLAND — Ashlanders will fight infantile paralysis by playing bridge Wednesday, Jan. 27 when a benefit bridge party is scheduled for the Ashland Junior Chamber of Commerce rooms as one of the Fight Infantile Paralysis events being arranged here. The Junior Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring the party with arrangements being made to accommodate 400.

J. E. Hartzler is general chairman for the party assisted by Russell J Hurst, Mrs. J. E. Bohn, Harold R. Sackett and Roger M. Paxton and their committees.

I always knew that soon we would have a solution for not having enough sugar in our coffee. Now we have it. No coffee.

Looks like the shortage will affect the traditional American breakfast scene. Dunking will join other past household customs such as bundling, dipping candles and buttering the tin bucket so Junior wouldn't get more foam than beer when he ran to the corner saloon for the family ration.

But it will certainly result in more happy homes. Think of all the marital trouble that began because the wife couldn't make a good cup of coffee. Now he can't say that he bets Myrna Loy could do better.

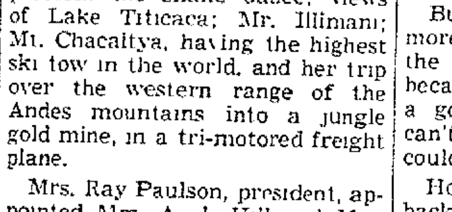

Household hint: In the old days back in County Kilkenny, my family used to make a pot of coffee last for months. They threw in an eggshell, a bit of rabbit, an old chop or anything else that happened to be around the house.

What would sometimes start out as a pot of coffee would end up as Irish stew, but, at that, it turned out better than some members of the family.

I always say that the hand that rocks the cradle rules the world, so, as a rule, let's put our hands together and stop the world from rocking, so we can get back to the cradle in the first place.

Loved Music.

"She has been at the piano every day, played duets with me and sang tonight and cried because she could not master a 4th grade piece I was playing for her to sing.

"I let her quit, feling that as she grew older she would eventually forget the maid and if I kept her musical talent alive she could eventually return to the same teacher.

"The teacher and I would like to know if I acted wisely."

In answering this mother I told her I did not believe her decision was good, in spite of her fine motives. I begged her to find another teacher at once for the child. It seems to me that if she and that teacher sensed the seriousness of the child's association with the maid and the emotions involved, they would have proceeded very differently from the way they did.

Shifting to another teacher under like conditions at school would not be so easy, though sometimes very desirable. But at school the child who might have a violent dislike of a teacher as a person is mingling with other children there is very different from being alone with a music teacher. I hope this case will help some other mothers and teachers to gain a richer insight into the emotional life of children.

Pitfalls of Love

(A sequel to Marriage Meddlers)
By ADELE GARRISON

My Puritan conscience, heritage of my ancestry but often shamefully distorted in these hectic days of government work, gave a twinge as I assured Stephen Redfield he could keep his role. I knew my father soon would tell Philip Vertizen he must find another leading man because Steve was wanted by the government for subversive activities. But I soothed my conscience by recalling that I had tacked on the proviso "as long as you behave yourself."

But my twinges of conscience gave place to a heady sense of triumph as I noted a sudden and startling change in Stephen Redfield. The savagery disappeared from his eyes, and the bewilderment was being replaced by an expression of hope.

Steve Calms Down.

Whether my threat had brought him to his senses, or he was acting a clever part, I could not determine, but he was no longer the dangerous monomaniac he had seemed when talking to Mary. He put his hand to his face in a curious gesture, as if trying to brush away cobwebs.

"Dare I believe you, Mrs. Graham?" he asked, in a manner of deep humility.

That he was "putting on an act" I knew. It might mask a sinister purpose, or this might be a sincere question. But whichever it was, I thankfully answered it.

"Of course you may believe me," I said. Then, with a forced appearance of friendliness, I spoke with confident authority.

"You are overwrought, and no wonder," I said. "Now, please go back to your rooms and rest, so that you may be able to take your role tomorrow night. I personally guarantee that if you are fit, as I feel sure you will be, you will go on tomorrow night. And you can be sure that John Hayes is no threat to your position as leading man."

Madge Embarrassed.

He suddenly dropped to his knees as gracefully as Georges, but not as convincingly for Georges has been making that gesture since childhood, then seized my hands and covered them with kisses, to my great embarrassment. Winters imperturbably watched Redfield, as the actor burst into hysterical ejaculations.

"Oh, can you and Mary ever forgive me?" he pleaded. "I have been mad, mad, because my career means so much to me. But you have convinced me. I will obey you in everything."

"Then get up from your knees instantly," I commanded. "This is not a costume drama, Mr. Winters will take you to your apartment, for I am afraid you might collapse with nervous exhaustion going through the halls alone. And he will remain outside your door for a quarter of an hour, so that you can call him if you need help."

Stephen protested volubly as he rose from his kneeling posture.

"I shouldn't dream of troubling him," he said.

"No trouble at all," Winters struck in with decision.

"I knew that," I said, "and when the quarter hour is up, Mr Winters, I shall be grateful if you'll come back here."

Winters sent me a comprehending glance, and I knew he would stand outside Redfield's door until relieved, then return to his task of guarding Mary.

"I'll be here," he said.

"The Authority on Authorities"

EMPHASIZE ESSENTIALS

There is always a danger of stressing something unimportant at the expense of overlooking a vital point. One of these comes when a player, hating to see his opponent take a trick with a little spot card -and who doesn't?— momentarily forgets about the main idea. That is to have your side take as many tricks as possible, regardless of what the opponent uses to win his tricks.

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

When West led the heart K, although the suit had been bid by the dummy at both tables of a team of four match, both of the declarers read it as surely being from at least a five-card holding, as otherwise they did not think West would have ventured to tackle the suit. If West had five, then East had a singleton, so neither held up, but went right in with dummy's A. The club 10 was then finessed to the K, and the spade 5 came back, the 4 being called from dummy.

Both Easts could read the lead as fourth-best from exactly four cards, hence declarer could win with either of his cards. One East hated to see him win that with a little card, so used his K to force the A. The spade 10 was then finessed, the Q cashed, the diamond J finessed the club Q and A dropped the J, two more clubs were raked in, and the diamond A was an extra trick.

At the other table East realized blocking the dummy was important. So, when the spade 5 was led to the third trick, the 4 going on from dummy, he played his 6, and South was licked. Unable to reach the dummy any more, he could not finesse diamonds, no matter what spade he used on that trick. So he took four clubs and led a diamond to the Q and K. East returned a heart for two tricks there, holding the declarer to exactly nine tricks and winning the hand for his side.

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer, East. Neither side vulnerable.)

After West leads the club K and then switches to the heart J, how should South play this hand at 4-Spades?

HOROSCOPE

For Wednesday, January 20.

Judging by the lunar transits this day should be devoted to rebuilding the morale as well as the energy, ambition and resources following a recent setback, disappointment or static condition. The attention should be focused on taking stock or reappraising all available assets. It is probable that the influence of those in position and financial standing may be required. So accent the personal popularity and social graces as well as the abilities.

Those whose birthday it is may best win success and personal gratification by concentrating on building up their dampened spirits or morale, supplemented by an inventory of their available assets, resources, originality and unusual abilities. This effort may be required to secure the support and good will as well as financial aid of those in influential places.

A child born on this day may have worthy aims and ambitions, and much creative talent with the personal prestige to attain success and happiness in life.

y were invited guests. It wasn't going to cost them anything—Ruby had said it wouldn't, and they hoped she still remembered. This looked like an expensive place she had here, big as all outdoors, and red and gold and glittering with mirrors and lights, and full of people.

They took it in, and all their eyes returned uneasily to Ruby. She was still beaming at them, which was reassuring. She did remember, because now she said to them in a stentorian aside that she'd about given them up, and where'd they been? She even told the audience that they belonged to her.

"Mallory's Navy," she said fondly. "I'm going to embroider it on their hatbands. I found 'em on my doorstep this afternoon, and I'm going to keep 'em, and I don't give a hoot what the Admiral says. Let him shiver his timbers. I always wanted a navy of my own, and a yacht to put it on—now all I need is the yacht," she continued, yanking a small piano around as she spoke, "so you know what to do, good people. Spend till it hurts. Spare no expense. Champagne is none to good for the like of you, is what I always say. And in the meantime," she concluded amiably, "hell will break loose. I shall sing a song, in other words."

She went about it, in the midst of general approbation. She was alone on the open oval floor, in the gaudy light. She had the small piano where she wanted it, at last, and now she kicked the stool into position. Groaning a little—flesh was a burden, and Ruby made no secret of the fact—she settled down upon the stool and stretched her feet out to the pedals.

She struck five mighty chords, straight down the keyboard. Her weight was in them, and they seemed to hit the ceiling and explode. "What do you want?" she shouted, over the reverberations. They wanted many songs in many quarters - Joan of Arc, and Long Boy, and Pack Up Your Troubles, and Good Morning, Mr. Zip, Zip, Zip, and Good-bye Broadway, Hello France—but when eventually the navy was emboldened to declare itself, the navy won. "All right," said Ruby. "That'll do, if I clean it up a little. Mademoiselle from Armentieres . . ."

She sang the way she played, and there was nothing like it in those days, when jazz was only ragtime, and when blues were only darky songs. There was nothing like it in the night clubs, called the cabarets. Nobody roared like Ruby, from the bottom of her lungs, she was the first to make a famous voice out of a hoarse howl and sense of rhythm. In later years she liked to say that she had been the grandmother of all the scat singers—in later years there was a phrase for it. It was just Ruby's way of singing, back in wartime.

She was fifty-eight. She looked like an old tomboy, which was as it should have been. She had a raffish bush of graying red hair, springing in all directions; she had a ruddy, ugly, pug-nosed, immensely jovial. This face was as supple as soft rubber, so that there was nothing Ruby could not do with it—essentially a funny face, it was more glib than speech, and more effective. It had been its owner's fortune. She could always make you laugh at what she said, if you were looking.

The navy loved her. She was a grand old girl—they had decided that at sight, each for herself and now they knew it. At sight had been at six o'clock this afternoon, or thereabouts; and there had been some truth in Ruby's little quip about the doorstep—she had found them in the lobby of her cabaret, downstairs on Broadway, when she arrived for a rehearsal, out of hours. They were gazing at the pictures of her chorus girls, in skin and spangles. They had just drifted up the street and drifted in, and there they were.

All of them were gobs, and all of them were what was known as regular, or seagoing. Their outfits told you, if you understood the signs. Hobey's for instance. This was his eighth month in the navy—August, 1918.

Today he wore the salty white hat, stuck far forward at the favored angle. It seemed about to hop off into space. He had gained an inch or two in height, and fourteen pounds in huskiness, and he was brown with sun and wind, and blue-eyed as a sailor should be. He was the first one Ruby spied when she arrived—this was because her own enormous tinted picture on its gilded easel was the first picture you came to in the lobby, and he had stopped before it. His companions were all farther on, where you'd expect to find them.

"Well, my goodness!" Ruby said in an amused voice. "Who goes here?"

He turned quickly, and she saw the vivid eyes in the burned face, and that square chin had a cleft in it; and she saw also that his ears were big, and slightly blistered on the rims, and that his black hair needed cutting, and that his mouth was very young and not quite firm, not quite decided yet. All this she saw and registered in one mental click; and she said, "Hello, son," instead of "Hello, sailor," as she had intended.

Hobey should have recognized her, but he didn't, just at first. She was smiling warmly at him. She was nothing like her picture in that moment, but he did perceive a friendly soul, a cheerful fat lady, well-meaning and good-natured as could be; and he grinned back.

"Hullo," he echoed, adding "—ma'am." Surely she was pretty old, though she was painted young.

She was the dressiest fat lady he had seen in quite a while. Lace and satin, chains and bracelets, rings and hatpins and a jeweled gold bag, a velvet band around the throat, a hat with veils and roses on it, and real flowers pinned on the shoulder with a whopping diamond pin. She smelled of perfume, too, and wore a six-foot featherboa. He suddenly discovered the resemblance he had missed. This plain yet fancy face belonged to Ruby Mallory, who was so famous that she should have scared you. Well, she didn't. Not a bit.

He said composedly, "I didn't know you with your hat on." That was just in case an explanation was in order. "But now I do," he said. "You're Ru—Miss Ruby Mallory."

"Start right, now," Ruby said. "You had it right the first time. I'm no 'Miss,' for heaven's sake, I hope, at my age. And what do I call you?"

"Hobart Higgins."

"No, I don't," she said. "Not 'Hobart.' Nobody can make me. You don't look like 'Hobart,' in the first place. Haven't you got a nickname?"

"'Hobey.' But that's about the same."

"It's not the same at all. It couldn't be more different. 'Hobey, Hobey Higgins'," Ruby said in full, seeming to like that very much. Seeming to like him, along with it. "From 'way down east, by any chance?"

"From Maine."

"I thought my ears didn't deceive me! Whereabouts in Maine?"

"It's just a little place. It's on an island. You wouldn't know—"

"I wouldn't, eh?" said Ruby. "I who discovered Maine, and founded it? Who do you think drove the Indians out? Listen, my child! I know every square inch. You tell me where you came from."

It was hard to talk, smiling from ear to ear the way he was. "Well, a place called Mitchell's Island. If you know where Channel Harbor is—"

And she did know. "There you are," she said. "I told you. You and I were neighbors, when I was young and you weren't born. I used to live in North Trimble when I was a little girl—never lived anywhere else, till a hundred and fifty years ago. Well, if this isn't a coincidence! We ought to shake on it."

They did, enthusiastically, both chuckling.

"Well, well, well, well," said Ruby. "Small world, as Adam said to Eve. It's good to see somebody from back home besides a broiled live lobster. What's the news down there? Or don't you know? How long've you been away?"

"A year. Almost."

"In the navy, all that time? How old are you, for pity's sake?"

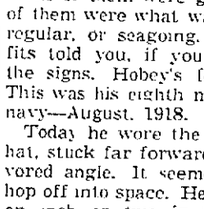

"All but three months at first . . . Eighteen, I am."

She eyed him shrewdly, till he laughed. "I'm eighteen and a half," he said. "What's the matter, don't I look it?"

"Not to me, you don't," said Ruby. "But then, I've lost perspective. You look about twelve to me, only big for your age. Well, but go on. Tell me some more. Tell me what it would say on your hatband—if you had that kind of a hat on. I always wish you boys would wear those blue ones, so I could read where I'm at."

RAILWAY FILES ANSWER TO SUIT OVER PROPERTY

Claims 12-Year-Old Bucyrus Legal Action Should Be Dismissed.

BUCYRUS—A new chapter in the 12-year litigation involving Bucyrus railroad property belonging to the New York Central railroad, in which the city of Bucyrus seeks reversion of the property to the city and a $50,000 money judgment, was written into the records today as an answer was filed by the defendant firm.

Setting up 12 causes of action the company attempts to show why the cause should be dismissed, and the temporary injunction granted heretofore depriving defendant of control of its property be dissolved with recovery of costs.

Included in the causes of action is the contention that the acquisition of the real estate in question was not for municipal purposes and was therefore illegal and void; that the city acted contrary to law in constructing a machine shop in the city; that the purported deed was beyond the power of the defendant company in that by attempting to require the railroad company to perpetually use, maintain the operation of said shops said contract was violative of the duty of the railroad company to be free to establish its shops in accordance with the dictates governing public bodies.

The answer further avers that all right, title, and interest in Bucyrus property in question was barred in 1885 upon proceedings in sale executed by the Ohio Central railroad company to the Toledo and Ohio Central Railroad company and that at no time did the latter company assume any of the obligations, liabilities, debts or undertakings of the O. C. Railroad company.

Further answering, the defendant avers that a great part of the buildings and tracks which were established and practically all of the machinery and equipment has become obsolete and that therefore, if the court should find that the plaintiff is entitled to a reversion of any property then only the land and the buildings, machinery and equipment erected and installed in 1880 which now remain in existence should be subject to reversion.

BURIAL TODAY

Holmes County Home Resident Succumbs at 72.

MILLERSBURG—Funeral services were to be conducted at 10:00 a. m., today for Mrs. Elizabeth Doerfer, 72, who died at the Holmes County Home, Saturday at 5:30.

Before coming to the home she and her husband, Frederick, whom she married in 1932, lived near Trail. Mrs. Doerfer was born at Bucyrus, Jan. 22, 1870 and lived in Toledo for a number of years. She was a member of the Catholic church at Toledo.

Besides her husband who also is living at the County Home, she is survived by a brother, Frank Shffer and a sister, Mrs. Emma Swigert, both of Toledo.

Services will be conducted at the Hunter funeral home by Rev Eugene Dunn of Millersburg St. Peter's Catholic church. Burial in the Glenmont Catholic cemetery.

COUPLE HURT IN CAR MISHAP

BUCYRUS—John A. O'Donnell, Bucyrus coal dealer, and Mrs. O'Donnell are recovering from painful injuries received Friday night in an automobile collision on Route 19 between Galion and Bucyrus. Wilbur Sand, Bucyrus R. D. 1, driver of the second car involved, received only slight bruises.

O'Donnell received several fractured ribs and Mrs. O'Donnell suffered a severely bruised hip and face and head lacerations.

The head-on collision occurred during a heavy snowstorm. Both cars were badly damaged.

WORKMAN INJURED

Pull the Trigger on Constipation, with Ease for Stomach, too

When constipation brings on discomfort after meals, stomach upset, bloating dizzy spells, gas, coated tongue, and bad breath, your stomach is probably "crying the blues" because your bowels don't move. It calls for Laxative-Senna to pull the trigger on those lazy bowels, combined with Syrup Pepsin for perfect ease to your stomach in taking. For years, many Doctors have given pepsin preparations in their prescriptions to make medicine more agreeable to a touchy stomach. So be sure your laxative contains Syrup Pepsin. Insist on Dr. Caldwell's Laxative Senna combined with Syrup Pepsin. See how wonderfully the Laxative Senna wakes up lazy nerves and muscles in your intestines to bring welcome relief from constipation And the good old Syrup Pepsin makes this laxative so comfortable and easy on your stomach Even finicky children love the taste of this pleasant family laxative. Shelby Couple Wed Before Altar Of Pure Heart Church

SHELBY—Before the altar of the Most Pure Heart of Mary church Saturday morning, Miss Gertrude Esser, daughter of Mr. Henry Esser, was united in marriage to Harry Simon, son of Mrs. Gertrude Simon.

Rev. Father Michael A. McFadden, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony. Attending the couple were Mrs. Wilbur Comer and Joseph Wagner, both of Shelby.

A wedding breakfast was served after the service at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Giles Simon on West Tucker avenue. Later the couple left for a short wedding trip, and upon return will make their home in this city.

CONDUCTS RITES

GALION—The funeral sermon for Rev. Edgar W. Schuh, 47, in Trinity Lutheran church, near Marion, today, was preached by his classmate at Capital university, Rev. Philip E. Auer of Galion. Rev. Auer was assisted in the services by Rev. John Renner of Trenton and Dr. Theodore J. C. Stellhorn of Sandusky.

The deceased was a member of a family well known in Galion. His father, the late Rev. Henry J. Schuh, D D., located in Galion. Several cousins are living in Galion.

SOME CAN SEW . . . AND SOME CAN NOT.

Some women have a knack . . . they think nothing of running up a batch of dresses, clothes for their children, and so on.

Those who haven't such skill, just haven't thought about making their own things. But they can learn . . . and in wartime, everyone who can, should. For home dressmaking is a part of thrifty living.

Besides, it's fun . . . and much easier than it looks to the inexperienced

And once exposed to the fascinations of choosing from our wonderful array of fabrics . . . once successful in making some smart and unusual combination of colors, or devising a trick of trimming . . . nothing will stop you!

It is a duty to be thrifty these days. And one of the most delightful forms of thrift is to plan and make one's own clothes.

It looks as though all of us would learn to live better because of the lessons taught us by our war economy!

Massillon Loses Two Forwards

Weisgarber and Harrison Enter Army This Week.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS — (AP) — More than 1,000 Ohio high school, their playing talent depleted by enlistments and the draft, are carrying on with their basketball chores on "a business as usual" basis.

Having received the "go-ahead" signal from the state scholastic association, along with assurance the county, district and sectional titles would be decided, the season rolls merrily along with its usual set-ups, up-sets and startling events.

Many of the squads lose players, and pick up a few others, this week as the semester ends. The armed services will take many others. Massillon's Tigers lose their starting forwards, Vernon Weisgarber and Joe Harrison, each being inducted into the army this week.

Howard Henderson, captain of the Portsmouth East squad, and Bill Davis of the same team will be in the navy soon. Bill Sizemore of New Boston has enlisted in the navy: George Ehrhard of the same Tiger team answered his draft call yesterday.

There still are more than 20,000 boys firing basketballs at the hoop in the Buckeye high schools, however, and here are a few of the highlights of their campaign.

Akron Jennings, a class A team, suffered the season's most startling defeat last week when it bowed 20 to 3 to Tallmadge, a class B quintet. The losers' lone field goal came within two minutes of the finish.

A host of teams remain undefeated, among the top-notchers being:

Class A—Wadsworth, North Canton and Bluffton, eight in a row; Canton McKinley, Steubenville and Portsmouth Central Catholic, seven; Youngstown South, Boardman and Cleveland John Hay, six; Cleveland South, five, and Western Reserve academy, four.

Class B—Lewisburg, 13; Middleport, 11; Dalton and Yellow Springs, Bryan, nine; Enon and Orwell, eight; Twinsburg, Creston, Utica, Waynesfield, North Lima (Mahoning county) and Braceville, seven, and Sabina, six.

Fremont and Findlay are tied for the Buckeye league lead with four straight, the same record Lakewood boasts in topping the Lake Erie loop. Berea, which hasn't lost a southwest conference game since 1939, having won 21 straight in the circuit, looks natural at the peak in that set, while Dover, defeated once in six attempts, is pacing the Central Ohio league.

Xenia Central, defending class A champion, has been beaten twice in 10 starts, one of the losses being to class B Yellow Springs Bryan. The champs lost the pair by a total of four points, but have copped their last six in a row. Somerset, class B ruler, has dropped so many it is out of the running.

Canton Lehman, semi-finalist in the class A state meet a year ago, has been beaten but once in six starts, dropping a 35-34 decision to Akron North, another semi-finalist in 1942. Waynesburg, one of the class B semi-finalists, has won eight and lost one, a 32-31 decision to class A Canton Township.

Season's records of some of the class A teams generally rated near the top include: Newark, 9-1; Dayton Wilbur Wright, Ironton and Lakewood, 7-1; Ashland, 6-1; Van Wert and Canton Lehman, 5-1; Middletown, 9-2; Xenia Central, 7-2; Lima Central, 6-2; Alliance, 4-3; Massillon, 3-2; Hamilton, 3-4; and Portsmouth, 1-6. In class B Newark St. Francis has won nine of 10; Waynesburg and Columbiana eight of nine, and Fredericktown seven of eight.

* * *

Among the leading scorers, with the games played, are: Henry (Hank) Vaughn, Akron Central, 152 in 8; Ron Tucker, Centerburg, 151 in 10; Jack Wilson, Xenia Central, 150 in 8; Junior Coad, Utica, 141 in 7; Fred Schaus, Newark, 131 in 10; Dick Mulvaine, Marion Harding, 120 in 7; Harry Anderson, Akron Kenmore, 109 in 6; Tom Hinton, Canton Timken, 107 in 10, and Dale Haverstock, Canton McKinley, 106 in 7.

Whippets, Redmen Battle For Cellar

SHELBY—Shelby Whippets will play the Bucyrus Redmen here Friday night in a North Central Ohio League cage game.

The two teams will be fighting to keep out of the cellar position in the league. Shelby has won one game out of four in league competition while Bucyrus has lost four straight contests.

* * *

Bucyrus has been improving since several regulars were put off of the squad for not returning to Bucyrus with the team after an out-of-town game. Last week the Redmen only lost to the Mt. Vernon Yellow Jackets by two points. Shelby defeated Mt. Vernon.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

NEW YORK—(AP)—Georgie Kochan 166½, Akron, O., knocked out Harry Serio 163½, Newark (2).

CHICAGO—Joe Maxin 182½, Cleveland, outpointed Clarence Brown 205½, Chicago (8).

Count Fleet Ranks Favorite In Kentucky Derby Book

By JACK MAHON

NEW YORK — (INS) — The day was as dark as a certain dictator's future when out of an envelope we plucked a sports release that filled the room with the fresh, clean smell of blue grass, changed the clacking rhythm of the typewriter keys to the thumping thud of horses' hooves and carried us, in reverie, back to Louisville for another running of the famed Kentucky derby.

Each year about this time the "man" comes around. His name is Frank Menke and his job is to convince the waiting world that the impending derby will be even greater than the many great races that have already filled its colorful history.

Maybe Col. Matt Winn, aged director of the race, has rationed Brother Menke this year. Frank's typewriter is still clicking however, and it was the first of his releases that fell out of our desk today and prompted us to pass along a little information we know you will all appreciate.

It is simply this: Count Fleet will win the 1943 derby.

There it is, brother. We have never been in the habit of stringing along with winter book favorites in the Blue Grass classic and the Count seems a cinch to wind up the choice when, and if, any of those generous gentlemen begin accepting wagers this year.

This time however, we are convinced the favorite is a cinch. We saw every good two-year-old in the country last season and the Count was by far the best.

The son of Reigh Count is an imposing-looking fellow who apparently has wintered well for trainer Don Cameron has him en route to Oaklawn, Hot Springs for the first trials of his three-year-old career.

The Count won 10 races, was second four times and third once in 15 starts as a juvenile, taking down $75,245 in purses and streaking a mile in 1:34 4-5 seconds at Belmont Park to establish a new world's record for two-year-olds. Its memory of the way he did it that's got us so excited and offering you this strictly confidential tip.

We got our first look at the Count one afternoon up at Empire City. He was in with a pretty fair field of sprinters and was five lengths or so back of the leaders as they swung for the stretch turn.

Here Johnny Longden loosened his hold and without seeming to make the slightest effort Count Fleet was up on top of them in a few jumps. Despite a very short stretch at Empire he was pulling away when he went under the wire.

His mile in the Champagne stakes, in which he went to the front at the break and held a six length lead nearly all the way, was one of the most amazing races ever seen in the East. Veteran horsemen said he could have shaved that to 1:34 flat, though blue swords and slide rule, two other highly regarded colts, were in the race.

Jack Campbell, veteran N. Y. handicapper has assigned Count Fleet 132 pounds, top weight, for the experimental handicap at Jamaica. This is a sort of a preview of the prospects of '43 and Campbell's list is accepted as something as a "who's likely to succeed" list by the Jockey club for whom it is prepared.

Campbell rates the Count as five points better than W. O. Boering's Devils Thumb, the champion of the Saratoga season who was taken out of training after winning five straight stakes at the old SPA.

Behind Devil's thumb comes John Marsch's Occupation, which was given 126 pounds, equal rating with Blue Swords. Ocean Wave and Chop Chop were rated next with 122 pounds each.

Though Occupation was the top money winner of his division with $192,355 and Devil's Thumb earned only $62,875 Campbell's opinion of the colts is arrived at by a study of another kind of figures — his own estimate of the horses' speed, possibilities and past performances.

In the filly class he has Good Morning and Askmenow pegged equally with 119 pounds for the Experimental.

Just how many of these will be around Derby day is very questionable but if the Count has the good fortune to survive the train rides, training and the weight of kiss-of-death predictions such as this, and gets to the post, May 1 he's as good as home free, right now.

Watch and see.

Loop Leaders Roll Shutouts

Telling Sealtest Keeps Margin of Seven Games.

Two top teams in the Commercial "C" bowling league scored shutout victories at Colony alleys last night, with Telling Sealtest maintaining its seven-game margin over Safety Cabs.

Tellings turned in a 942 game and Safety Cabs a 917 game, a lot of wood in the "C" league.

* * *

F. Ealy rolled high total of 607 with a 236 game, while Zimmerman's 602 series included the league's high game of 245.

Bob Fellers Find Food Problem

Bob's Appetite Has Wife Worried Already.

NEW YORK—(AP)—Mrs. Robert Feller is certain she will be able to cook for her husband although she thinks the appetite of the former Cleveland pitcher is the largest she ever has seen.

"I told him before we were married that no doubt he'd have to live on fudge, cokes and chicken salad," she said, "but already he is asking for steaks."

The Fellers were married at Waukegan, Ill., Saturday evening and are honeymooning on the 10-day furlough granted the 24-year-old bridegroom from his duties as chief boatswain's mate in the U. S. Navy.

* * *

Feller said he had not handled a baseball since last August and did not believe his naval duties would permit him to do more than "warm up once or twice and do a little running this spring."

He was certain, however, that he would return to baseball after the war with all his previous effectiveness.

"I've read somewhere," he said, "that military service develops new muscles and causes different muscular reactions that may ruin the careers of athletes. I don't think that is true in my case. I think I'll be ready to play ball again if I can keep my legs in shape."

And what did the 5-foot 2-inch, 90-pound bride think of the fame won by her 6-foot 1-inch, 191-pound husband?

"Oh, my goodness. I just think of him as Bobby, that's all. He's like a different person when I see his picture in the paper. We first met in 1940 when he came to Florida for spring training and I was attending Rollins college.

* * *

"When I saw him I was so surprised. I had always thought all baseball players were old men."

Club League Race Tightens

Bankers Blanked, Lead By Only Single Game.

Tied for second place in the Club bowling league, Tracy-Avery and Doherty Fraternity moved within one game of the loop-leading Mansfield Savings Bank last night at Colony alleys, each turning in 2-1 wins while the Bankers were blanked by Page Dairy.

Anderson set the league scoring pace with a 595 total, while Garrison and Faught tied for high game with 223.

Baseball Stars Keep In Shape

HANK BOROWY DIXIE WALKER

After busy days in defense plants, Hank Borowy, left, ace right-hander of the New York Yankees, and Dixie Walker, outfielder of the Brooklyn Dodgers, go in for this form of recreation at night to keep in shape for the baseball season ahead.

Sport Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(AP) Idea man: Ralph Higgins, Oklahoma A and M track coach, has figured out how colleges can save on travel by adopting the Oxford-Cambridge scoring system for dual track meets. Only first places are counted at one point each . . . Higgins' idea is that eight or ten-man squads would be enough for the 15 events if some athletes double up. . . . Harry Walker, who'll fill Terry Moore's place in the Cardinals' outfield, is the father of a baby named after Terry.

TODAY'S GUEST STAR.

Russ Needham, Columbus (O.) Dispatch: "What the Cardinals didn't do toward breaking up the Yankees, apparently the war is completing. One gets this idea contemplating what the American league champions will have left if Joe DiMaggio is successful in his intention of enlisting in the armed forces.

ONE-MINUTE SPORTS PAGE.

One reason for the Rangers' sour showing this hockey season is that visiting players admit New York fans and officials are the most impartial in the league. "Playing in New York is just like playing on the road," Coach Frank Boucher explains . . . Johnny Evers, still confined to bed with one side paralyzed, dictated a letter to the local baseball writers saying he hadn't missed one of their annual dinners yet and doesn't want to miss this year. . . . There's no big-time basketball in war crowded Washington this winter because Georgetown and George Washington had to move out of Riverside stadium, where they used to play on a board floor over the ice. They could get 3,500 fans into the high school gym they now use—if school authorities would trust an inexperienced crew to set up bleachers.

A. Peters Again Paces Westie Loop

Arlene Peters again led the Westinghouse women's bowling league at Colony alleys last night with a 483 total, while M. Rickel turned in high game of 196, and M. Smoot had a 190 game.

City Loop Has Heated Race

Two Games Booked For Wednesday Night.

The heated City league basketball race will continue tomorrow night with the usual two game program getting underway at 7:30.

Yunckers will face Westinghouse in the opener and Globe Steel's cagers, beaten twice in a row, will attempt a comeback against Athletic Supply in the finale.

Yunckers and Globe Steel are tied for first place, each with four victories and two defeats, while Westinghouse is a close second.

The Supplies are deep in the basement, having lost five of six contests. Their only victory, however, was an upset over Westinghouse last week and if they can pull it again tonight, the race will be blasted wide open.

Senior Church League bucketeers return to action tonight. St. Luke's takes on Central Methodist, First Lutheran meets Congregational, Episcopal tackles St. Matthew's, and Grace Gospel goes against St. John's.

BELLVILLE-MADISON GAME POSTPONED

Forced closing of Madison school for the second straight day because of impassable highways today resulted in the postponement of tonight's Madison-Bellville high school game at Madison.

Supt. Olan LaRue of Madison said an effort would be made to book the game later. It is a non-league tilt.

Jackie Callura Cops Nod

Wins Feather Crown From Jackie Wilson.

PROVIDENSE, R. I. — Jackie Callura of Hamilton, Ont., was recognized today as the new featherweight champion in states governed by the National Boxing association after a windmill attack and an unexpected ability to come from behind in the late rounds earned him an upset titular victory over Duskie Jackie Wilson of Pittsburgh.

* * *

Callura wrestled, shoved and lunged while letting loose with a whirlwind assault to dethrone Wilson in a 15-round upset before a crowd of 6,500 at the Rhode Island auditorium last night and put the former champion on the canvas three times.

For eight rounds, Wilson bobbed and ducked Callura's hurricane attack but a punishing left swing landed in his mid section and the Canadian was on the road to victory. The rugged 27-year-old challenger continued to plunge and push his way throughout, gaining strength as he went along, to register victory in the second featherweight title bout to be held here in four years.

Wilson's better boxing weathered Callura's wild-swinging attack in the first round and he captured the second with the same tactics. The third was even, Wilson bringing his opponent up short with chopping uppercuts in the clinches. It was in this round that the pair landed on the floor for the first time as Callura tugged and pulled in a clinch.

The fourth went to Callura with both fighters again on the floor but Wilson put on his only sustained drive in the fifth to win the round with a straight left and punishing right. The fight was even at the ninth but Callura suddenly grew stronger and even more aggressive to lead the rest of the way. He wrestled Wilson, who drew a one-count, to the floor for the third time in the 11th.

Callura's nose was bleeding in the seventh and Wilson's lip was cut in the eighth but neither suffered any apparent serious injuries.

The new champion, also Canadian featherweight titlist, fought for expenses while Wilson received $7,500. He weighed 125¼ to Callura's 125½. The United Press score card gave Callura nine rounds, Wilson five, and called one even.

NBA President Abe Greene, present at the bout, said he would attempt to stage a title bout between Callura and Willie Pep of Hartford, Conn., recognized by the New York commission as champion, unless Wilson and Callura were rematched in 60 days as their contracts provided.

Falcons Coast To 13th Straight Win

(By Associated Press)

Bowling Green's undefeated basketeers coasted to their 13th consecutive victory last night as Ohio State chalked up its first Western conference win.

The Bee-Gees crushed Ohio Northern 49 to 28 and maintained their season average of better than a point and a half a minute despite Polar Bear stalling tactics. The Buckeyes trimmed Chicago 47 to 29.

Except for Capt. Freddie Miller, who fired in 10 field goals and two free throws, Ohio State was unimpressive in overcoming the Maroons. It was Chicago's 34th consecutive defeat in the Western conference and its 29th against all opposition.

The Bucks have four wins in eight games against all opposition. Two of the setbacks were conference games against Indiana.

WINS ON KNOCKOUT

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—(AP)—Wally Verbangic, Cleveland heavyweight, knocked out Pittsburgh's Joe Jablocki in the main event of an amateur boxing program here last night and Pedro Calvillo, Cleveland middleweight lost to Johnny Watson of Pittsburgh.

Prospect Five Leads League

Remains Undefeated In Grade School Loop.

Prospect cagers swamped Carpenter 21-4 at Johnny Appleseed gym yesterday to continue undefeated in the leadership of the southern division of the grade school basketball league.

Bowman blanked Western 11-0 at John Simpson, but the winners weren't setting any scoring records, getting only five points in the first three periods.

Newman defeated Bushnell 14-9 with Demyan scoring 10 points, enough to win by himself.

Hedges romped over Woodland 16-4, paced by McKown's eight points.

WHITE SOX BOSS HAS OPERATION

LOS ANGELES—(INS)—Jimmie Dykes, manager of the Chicago White Sox, was reported recovering today from an operation for gall stones, an ailment which has been troubling him for several years.

After the operation which was performed in the Cedar of Lebanon hospital yesterday, physicians said he probably would recover in time to start spring training with the White Sox at French Lick Springs, Ind., next March.

OLD PETE FINED ON DISORDERLY CHARGE

CHICAGO — (INS) — Grover C. Alexander, 55, former major league baseball pitcher, considered the possibility today of demanding a hearing on a charge of disorderly conduct which cost him $30 for failing to appear before Judge Victor A. Kula.

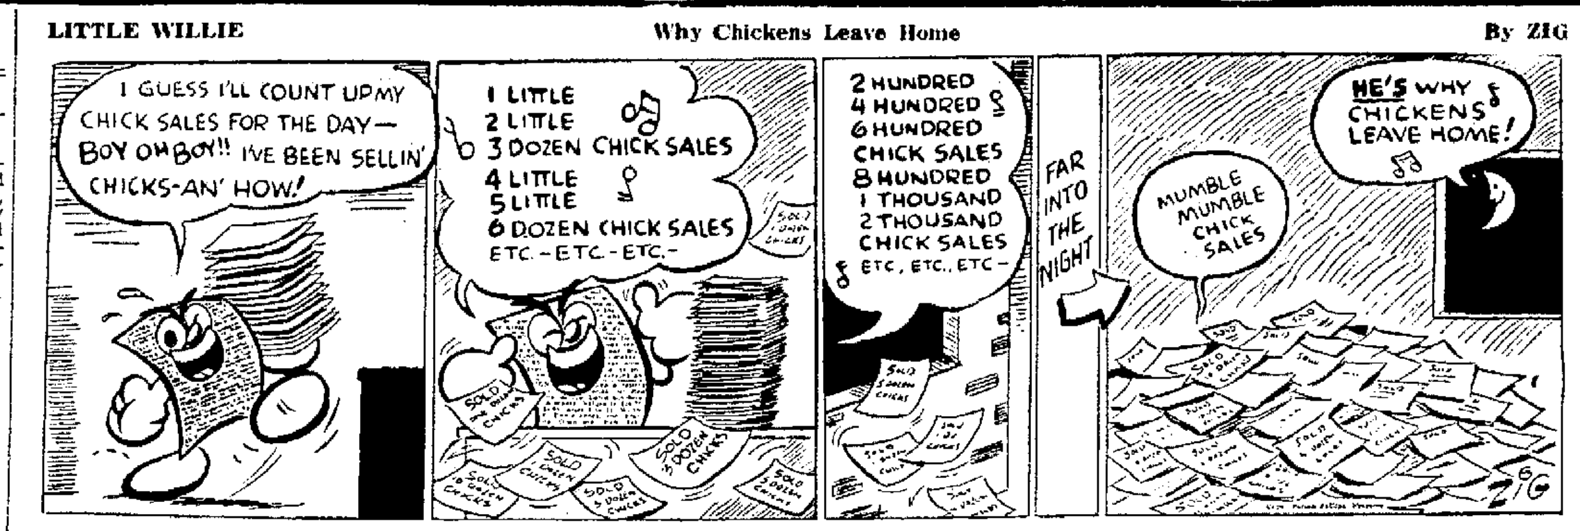

The fine of $15 and $15 in costs was imposed yesterday when Alexander failed to return from Milwaukee to answer the charge. He had been out on bail in order to continue his lecture tour.

Alexander, police said, was arrested while lying on the floor of a hotel lobby, allegedly in an intoxicated condition.

STOCK MARKET CONTINUES ON UPWARD SWING

Business Loans Decline By $55,000,000 in Week Ending Jan. 13.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Slightly higher prices ruled today's early stock market proceedings.

Improved at a moderately active opening were U. S. Steel, Anaconda, Oliver Farm, Sears Roebuck and Pullman. Small declines were posted for Bethlehem and Woolworth.

Financial observers noted the compilation of the federal reserve board which disclosed that loans to commerce, industry and agriculture by member banks in 101 cities for the week ended Jan. 13 dropped $55,000,000.

County Gets War Bond Honor Banner Tomorrow.

Public recognition of its efforts in the November war bond drive—when more than $500,000 worth of bonds were purchased—will be accorded Richland county Wednesday night at a "county of the month recognition dinner" by both the Ohio War Savings committee and the Standard oil company.

Approximately 200 persons are expected to attend the dinner slated for 6:15 p. m. at the Mansfield-Leland hotel, among them several officials from the state committee. Philip J. Trounstine, state chairman, and Harold H. Bredlow, executive secretary, will aid in conferring the honors.

In addition to the flag-pennant to be presented by the Standard Oil company the nine regional sales winners for the month of November will also receive awards from the same company.

Reservations are still available for the dinner at $1.55 a person, Paul M. Eliot, county war savings committee chairman, said.

SHORTAGE SEEN IN VEGETABLES

'Luxury Types' Curtailed By War Will Be Scarce During Winter.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Consumers look forward to shortages of almost all "luxury" vegetables for the rest of the winter, agriculture department statistics revealed today.

With the winter growing season in Florida, California and Arizona at its height, sharp reductions have been noted in production of lettuce, green peppers, cauliflower, egg plant, celery, cucumbers, onions and artichokes.

The shortages can be blamed on the war, for the agriculture department has deliberately attempted to discourage production of these "luxury" winter crops in favor of increased planting of more nutritious foods needed by allies, service men and war workers.

The department theorized that there are not enough laborers, fertilizer or machinery to maintain full production of both luxury and necessity crops.

Thus, the overall reduction of 11 per cent below the 1942 winter harvest is no surprise.

Pointing out that these "luxury" vegetables are not part of the basic American diet, Secretary of Agriculture Wickard recently asked farmers in the winter vegetable-producing areas to substitute for them foods rich in minerals.

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD—Mr. Sol Lesser, who is engaged in a worthy film undertaking called "Stage Door Canteen, is making a terrible threat to the artists who are volunteering their services for it.

Coons

Mr. Lesser doesn't mean it as a threat. On the contrary, he intends a compliment. He says he's going to have prints of his picture sealed away in some spot in New York and London so that folks 100 years from now may dig them out and see how wonderfully today's stage and screen stars served a worthy cause.

Mr. Lesser is well-intentioned, but he should be stopped, right now. He should be enjoined from sealing up this celluloid record anywhere unless he adds the proviso that it may be opened only—and then in greatest privacy—by serious, accredited students of dramatic history, each pledged not to bring a friend to the ghoulish rites.

For it is to be doubted that any artistic medium changes so rapidly or so noticeably as the motion picture. Our stars today are wonderful creatures — by our standards. They act (if the art to please today's audiences) the way we like to think that human beings act. They're for us, today, now—not for 100 years hence.

Anybody who has gone through the passing torture of seeing a revival of an old, well-loved movie will get the point of this. Many astute critics still insist that "The Birth of a Nation" is one of the great movies of all time. I'll join them to this extent: it was the greatest movie of its own time. Today, it's a museum piece.

You see no early Mary Pickford films about — unless it's at New York's Museum of Modern Art, where presumably only properly reverent students, interested in movie beginnings, are the patrons. Mary Pickford, whose heyday lasted into the 1930's, took care that her movies—made for her time—were not passed about freely for the merriment of later generations. Miss Pickford was wise.

For a more up-to-date instance of the ephemeral quality of today's "cinema art," there's "Scarface." I heard it described, in conversation about the recent Touhy gang case, as "a pretty good picture for its day." Its day was 1932. Ten years ago, and it has had its day.

And Mr. Lesser proposes to preserve for posterity the generous art of our current favorites—Helen Hayes and Katharine Cornell and Tallulah Bankhead among others from the stage, Dietrich, Hepburn, Colbert et als, from the screen. He'll save them, with all their mannerisms, for 100 years from now when, for all we know, television may be out-moded, radio and films may be antiques, and every human being may be his own little theater, delicately attuned to playing his own starring role in the cosmic drama—without benefit of antennae, projection machines, or smoking permitted in the balcony.

CHECK SHOTGUN IN GRUESOME OHIO MURDER

Authorities Study Weapon Found By Boys, Press Search For Wife.

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS — Deputy sheriffs today were checking a shotgun found Saturday near the home of slain Guy B. Fowler, 47-year-old carpenter at the Columbus quartermaster depot, to determine whether it was the lethal weapon used in the gruesome "cedar chest" murder.

According to deputy sheriffs, the gun, discovered by two small boys, who sold it to a northside milkman, was the first tangible clue to arise for investigation since Fowler's body was found, the head riddled with shotgun pellets and stuffed into a cedar chest, which he had given to his wife for Christmas, in a bedroom of their northside Sale road home.

Another clue uncovered by special investigator Frank Martin, who was assigned to the case by Chief Deputy Sheriff Ralph Garner, was an undeveloped roll of film, which Martin said strengthened his contention that more than one person was involved in the slaying. According to Martin, two men appeared in several of the eight exposures on the roll. Fowler's picture was not on the roll.

Meanwhile, deputy sheriffs pressed their hunt for Fowler's young wife, Norma Bates Fowler, 26, who is missing from their home along with all her clothing and personal effects.

Authorities today disclosed that the Fowlers had quarreled before, and that Mrs. Fowler had hurled a hammer at her husband on Christmas day. Pickaway county Sheriff Charles Radcliff disclosed that Mrs. Fowler's father, John Bates, of near Circleville, had loaned a shotgun to the Fowlers the day before Christmas. The gun never returned, was believed to be the murder weapon by deputy sheriffs. It was further disclosed that both Fowler and his wife had prison records.

Mrs. Fowler was sentenced to the Girl's Industrial school May 17, 1932, when she was sixteen years old. Sentenced as an incorrigible, she remained there until paroled May 13, 1937, he records showed.

Fowler, according to authorities, served 18 months at McNell island, Wash., for violation of the federal auto theft law. He was paroled Dec. 2, 1939.

BIDS DUE ON CITY SUPPLIES

City To Get Proposals on Coal, Chlorine, Possibly Garbage Cans.

Reception of bids for 1943 materials to be used by various city departments in routine operations during the year will begin next week.

On Monday, bids will be opened in the office of Service Director Fred B. Wolff for supplying six carloads of egg coal while prices will be studied for furnishing 6,000 pounds of liquid chlorine, subject to federal releases.

Bids also have been asked for furnishing 600 garbage cans and 300 lids. The cans must be made of 24 gauge metal, heavily galvanized, constructed with no corrugations, have bails, and be embossed "City of Mansfield, O." The covers must be of the same material and diameter as the cans.

Supt. Lester Linham of the garbage collection department doubts if any firm is equipped at this time to deliver such metal products as a result of government priorities.

Linham has been studying containers made of substitute materials, such as plywood, and has conferred with Dr. W. B. Wild, city-county health commissioner, on sanitary requirements. The only plywood producer is located in Oregon, Linham says, and freight costs likely would make purchase of such equipment impossible.

On Jan. 29 bids will be received for brick, sand, gravel, asphalt and cement and other materials to be used in ordinary street repair work.

TRIAL OPENS

Start Selecting Jury in Rape, Robbery Case.

The trial of Douglas Bonecutter, 24, charged in a grand jury indictment with rape and robbery, opened in common pleas court this morning with selection of the jury occupying a great part of the morning.

Bonecutter, on parole from the Ohio State Reformatory where he had been committed for robbery, is alleged to have committed the offenses last Dec. 27 against a Mansfield woman who was in the courthouse this morning awaiting call as the principal witness for the state.

With Bonecutter was his mother, and attorney, O. C. Kalbfleisch, who conducted the examination of jurymen for the defense. Prosecutor John O'Donnell conducted the state's examination.

The trial is expected to be completed tomorrow.

'ONE MAN BLITZ' RETURNS TO ARMS OF SWEETHEART, BLINDED

(By International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA — Private Albert A. Schmid, the "one man blitz" of the U. S. marines, was home from the wars today.

Only the keenest observer could tell, as the handsome marine, who kept a machine gun blazing until he had killed 200 Japs last Aug. 21, stepped to the station platform, that one eye had been shot away and he could see only bright light with the other.

Smilingly he stood there, until a soft hand, the hand of the girl who had promised to wait for him and wouldn't be put off when he tried to break their engagement, touched his olive drab coat.

"It's Ruth," whispered Ruth Hartley, his "Little Mouse." And it meant it when he tried to break off because he "didn't want to be a drag on anybody," the kiss that followed should have allayed them.

Next to greet the Guadalcanal hero were Mr. and Mrs. Adolph E. Schmid, his parents. Between alternate kisses and hugs, all Private Schmid could say was "Aw, Gee." All his father could say as big tears splashed on his white muffler was "I'm alright, son. I'm okay." Mrs. Schmid just cried and looked proud.

"Where's Jeff," Al asked when he got his breath. The pet dog, it was explained, stayed home, as his master was to go to the Philadelphia Naval hospital directly from the station.

"He'll never be a drag on anyone," Ruth told reporters. "I don't know what he'll do. You can't tell much what anyone thinks when a stranger has to write the letters—and read the ones that come. You can't write very well that way either. What you want to say would sound too silly."

Schmid is expected to be under treatment for a year, and there is a possibility he may regain sight in one eye. A glass eye has replaced the one destroyed by a bullet.

As for that letter Private Schmid once sent Ruth telling her to forget about their marriage plans—well, he had just one answer when someone asked him if he'd be invited to the wedding.

"You bet," he grinned as he pulled the future Mrs. Schmid closer.

ILLNESS FATAL

Charles H. Shoup Taken By Death; Rites Thursday.

Charles H. Shoup, 67, died yesterday afternoon at his home, a mile east of Pavonia, after a lingering illness.

Born Jan. 8, 1876 at Lakeville, he had spent the greater part of his life in this vicinity, and was a member of the Pavonia Methodist church.

He is survived by five sons, William and T. H. Shoup of Mansfield; Alfred Shoup at home; Cpl. John and Pvt. Dale Shoup in the U. S. army; and one daughter, Mrs. Lee Hale of Pavonia.

Also surviving are three sisters, Mrs. Walter Homerick of Weller township, Mrs. Edward Boals of Crestline, and Mrs. Charles Deweese of Ashland county; four brothers, Harry and Paul Shoup of Mansfield, John Shoup of Pavonia, Frank Shoup of Ashland, and eight grandchildren.

The body has been removed to the Wappner funeral home in Mansfield where Rev. Floyd Eckert of Pavonia will conduct funeral services at 3:30 p. m. Thursday. Burial will be in Windsor cemetery.

Laff-a-Day

"I don't know how any politicians ever gets elected, handing these things out!"

Another Mansfielder in service who says he's been away from the home town for several years, but wants to say "hello and thank you," Cpl. James F. Garver with the Army Air Forces at McClellan Field, Calif., has written a letter in appreciation of the Pearl Harbor edition, which was sent to all local men in service, and to thank the folks here for their splendid support of the bond drive. He said, "The success of the bond drive is indicative that the people of Mansfield and its associates are aware of the opportunity confronting them. The opportunity not only to invest in freedom and final victory, but also the purchase of war bonds as a means of saving and as an investment to ward off the havoc of inflation." Cpl. Garver is the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. F. Garver.

It won't rain soon, and today's snowfall will fade out with sunshine, take it from Sam Young, sanitary inspector with the city-county health department. Seen packing a snowball in front of city hall today and asked "how come?" Young recited an Indian legend revealed to him by a northwoods trapper. Place a tightly packed snowball over moderate heat. If the ball drips it is a forecast of rain. If it melts gently and flows to the flanks sunshine is indicated. Young doesn't vouch for the veracity of the test but for no reason in particular it might be worth trying.

The noon program given at Johnny Appleseed and John Simpson Junior high schools for all pupils who stay at the school for lunch are really getting support from the student body in these days of ice, snow and cold weather. At Appleseed a varied program is carried through ranging from movies, basketball games to a dance in the gymnasium once a week. The set-up at Simpson varies somewhat in that one popular movie is shown lasting over the week's time. And at both schools study halls are conducted for pupils wishing to brush up on their afternoon assignments.

DIES AT AGE 34

Richard A. Zorub Succumbs After Brief Illness.

Richard A. Zorub, 34, of 510 Daisy street, died last night at Mansfield General hospital, after a brief illness.

Born in Nantucket, Mass., Mr. Zorub came to Mansfield from Hot Springs, Ark. in 1938 and established an electrical appliance business. He was manager of the Air Way, Inc., in Mansfield. Mr. Zorub was a member of the First Presbyterian church of Hot Springs, Ark.

He is survived by his wife, Opal (Koenig) Zorub; a daughter, Cloria; and a son, Richard, jr., all at home.

Funeral services will be conducted at 2 p. m. Thursday in the Jones Memorial home with Rev. D. N. Roller, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, in charge. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery.

DENIES PLAN TO SHAKE UP PRICE SYSTEM

Ex-Senator Says He'll Study Set-up First, Confers With Henderson.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — Ex-Senator Prentiss M. Brown, of Michigan, today plunged into the "thankless" task of being the nation's watch-dog on prices with the pledge that there will be no immediate radical changes in the price and rationing policies of OPA.

"There has been talk of a plan of mine to reorganize the whole setup," he said. "That's not so. At least there'll be no changes of that sort until I've had time to study the need for it and then there will be no changes unless it is needed."

Brown said that he expects to be sworn in the middle or later part of the week. Supreme Court Justice Frank Murphy, close friend of Brown, is expected to administer the oath of office to the 53-year-old native of St. Ignace, Mich., as director of the office of price administration.

The new OPA chief conferred today with his predecessor—tough, outspoken Leon Henderson, whose proudest boast is that he has held the price line, despite the political pressure which finally contributed to his resignation. Henderson is expected to leave soon for an extended vacation in South America.

Brown declared, soon after his speedy confirmation by the senate, that his every effort also would be bent toward "keeping prices in control." Informed officials predict that he will be under terrific pressure from the farm lobbies and other groups to puncture the ceilings.

After going over his job with Henderson, the former Michigan senator plans to try and isolate himself "for 10 days or two weeks to get the feel of things."

The next step on Brown's program is to talk things over with influential senators and congressmen. Shortly after his confirmation, Rep. Cole, (R., N. Y.), introduced a resolution in the house authorizing a probe of price and rationing regulations by a nine-member select commitee.

Demand For Ohio Wine Three Times Production Rate

SANDULSKY—(AP)—A war-inspired rush for midwest wines has sent demand soaring two or three times above the production rate, spokesmen for leading wineries agreed today.

Officials of two Sandusky producers said bottlers who normally buy from California have been unable to get all their normal needs and thus have turned to wineries in Ohio, New York and Michigan.

Since the government has limited sugar to 70 per cent of that used in 1941, the sweetness of some kinds of wine is being cut by some producers. The officials added that the industry also is concerned about the supply of brandy, used for fortifying sweet wines.

At Cincinnati, Meier's Wine Cellars, Inc., said the demand was caused not only by the hard liquor shortage but by a swing toward lighter beverages as part of a periodic change in customer's tastes.

The Sandusky spokesman said several things contributed to reduced availability of California wines: government freezing of part of the grape crop, a shortage of labor needed for picking, and distillers' action in buying some California wineries, keeping more of the output for sale under their own brand names instead of selling it to bottlers.

Both said they were taking on no new customers, but are attempting to keep up with old accounts' demands as much as possible.

Official Reveals Campaign To Halt Meat Bootlegging.

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Nation-wide squelching of "meat bootlegging" was under way as James C. Gruener, regional legal chief, revealed today that a meeting of regional enforcement attorneys and agents from San Francisco, New York, Denver, Dallas, Atlanta, and Chicago had been held in Cleveland to discuss the national menace of the black markets.

Gruener, who disclosed the meeting had been held Sunday, said details must be withheld to guard against "tipping off" violators.

Dispatches said there appeared little likelihood the surviving Japanese could hold out long.

Meanwhile, Allied planes attacked the big enemy base at Lae, in northern New Guinea, and Rabaul and Gasmata in New Britain, and sank an 8,000-ton Japanese cargo ship in the Bismark sea.

Allied land patrols clashed with Japanese troops again in the vicinity of Mubo.

In the Burma theater, British headquarters reported that Field Marshall Wavell's forces captured the village of Kyauktaw, 40 miles northeast of the Japanese base at Akyab.

Other British troops scored a small advance in the Dondaik region on the Mayu peninsula, above Akyab, and gained in operations against Rathedaung, 25 miles north of Akyab.

In the Chin hills, British Indian troops were reported to have contacted the Japanese.

British headquarters said Allied planes set large fires at Rathedaung, blasted Japanese-occupied villages in the Mayu river area, bombed Akyab itself "with good results," strafed enemy airdromes near Toungoo and Meiktila, and attacked water transport on the Chindwin and Irrawaddy rivers.

Alerts Hint New Raids On Italy

LONDON —(INS)— Air alerts were sounded during the night in Zurich, Basle and other Swiss cities, leading to the belief today that a Royal Air Force attack may have been carried out against either southern Germany or northern Italy.

The alerts were sounded shortly before midnight and although the British air ministry has made no announcement concerning RAF activity it was pointed out that communiques frequently are delayed for some time following an attack.

Nazi raiders appeared over southern England again last night to drop high explosive bombs and incendiaries. Considerable damage was done to residential areas on the southeast coast.

The enemy planes were met by the heaviest barrage of anti-aircraft fire yet sent up from points in southern England.

Patrol Bombers Hit 3 Axis Supply Ships

LONDON —(AP)— Light British patrol bombers hit three enemy supply ships last night in an attack on a convoy off the Dutch coast, the air ministry announced today.

The RAF bomber command did not raid Europe in force last night but did lay mines in enemy waters while aircraft of the fighter command on offensive patrols attacked freight trains and locomotives in northern France.

The night's operations were carried out without a single British plane being lost, the communique said.

Informed sources said they were unable to explain air raid alerts sounded at Bern and Basel, Switzerland, shortly before midnight.

Navy Says 'We're Not Winning Battle of Transportation.'

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—The toll of United Nations and neutral ships officially announced and unofficially reported as sunk by Axis submarines in the western Atlantic totaled 625 today, and a navy spokesman said that "as it stands now we're not winning the battle of transportation."

Of this total, the navy has announced 438 sinkings and 187 others have been reported by other sources.

REDDING TO BE RENT DIRECTOR

Appointment of Mansfield Architect Made Known By OPA Director.

G. Brunner, now a Mansfield bank executive, was state director.

Redding served as architect for the state HOLC offices from June, 1934, to October, 1935, and with the regional offices at Cincinnati from October, 1935, to October, 1938.

Williams, in addition to making the announcement of Redding's selection as rent office chief, outlined price control plans at today's luncheon.

It was also revealed today that the personnel at the rent office had been sharply reduced in the past two weeks.

W. C. Mansfield, veteran realtor who became examiner for the area office about Dec. 1, and who resigned as a member of the city civil service commission as a result of the appointment, separated from the federal service two weeks ago.

Others to leave the staff are Charles Callihan and J. H. Mayberry, inspectors. It was understood that lack of sufficient work to be performed brought about the separations.

Atty. M. A. Deare has been named temporary assistant attorney for the area and will be reached by Crawford county clients at 107½ Washington square in Bucyrus.

Warns of Attack Against Sweden

STOCKHOLM — (AP) — Prime Minister Per Albin Hansson's warning of a possible attack on Sweden and his demand for the "utmost defense in such an eventuality was made against a "background most serious," the influential newspaper Dagens Nyheter said today.

The prime minister warned the Swedish parliament yesterday of the possibility of an attack and said "beyond any doubt we will defend ourselves." He cautioned against the possibility of false orders being issued, as happened in Norway, and said if an attack came everyone would have to join in defending the country, the only remaining neutral nation in northern Europe.

The Dagens Nyheter said the country "must be ready to meet blitz attacks, especially by enemy air forces" and added that "Swedes have enough courage to face reality, even the reality of war."

Hansson emphasized that precautions had been taken against fifth columnists, but said there was a possibility the conflict would spread rapidly and that the danger for Sweden had not passed.

Hitler's Fear Of Junkers Proved By Purge

The appalling death toll in 1942 of German nobility officers bears out the fact that Hitler is deliberately ordering the sons of the Prussian aristocracy to dangerous front-line assignments, thus purging the army of an element of which he's always shown distrust. Before the war began, it was an open secret among the "high born" Junker caste that if defeat should ever befall the Third Reich, they would turn Hitler over to the enemy to take the full brunt of responsibility and then put themselves in power to restore order, and, ascend to the former prestige. Among the numerous high-ranking aristocrats "killed in action" are Field Marshall Walter von Reichenau, top left; Gen. Herbert von Bismarck, center; General von Kleist, right; Gen. Werner von Fritsch, lower left, and Maj. Gen. von Gablentz.

Bates Changes Mind, Decides To Stay As Chief Of Police

many police department members had signed the petition.

Bates, in his Saturday application for a new leave, had said that "should such service jeopardize my seniority and retirement privileges" he would immediately request his release from the federal post. The chief has devoted nearly 20 years to Mansfield police duties.

As early as Saturday afternoon it was learned that efforts would be made from some quarters to keep Bates here or influence his early return. Bates said yesterday that a recent illness brought him to a realization that should he become permanently unable to perform routine duties while on the FBI assignment his pension rights with the police department would be imperiled.

Bates entered FBI service Jan. 15, 1942, under a leave granted by city council "for the duration of the national emergency" but on Dec. 1 the Civil Service commission ruled that under state law a leave could not extend beyond one year. In compliance to that ruling Bates returned to his duties as chief Jan 11, the commission having indicated an application for a new leave would be favorably considered.

Yesterday's withdrawal of the long-term application made police promotional examinations, scheduled for Thursday night, unnecessary for the time being. Only one request was made to take the examination and that was from Capt. Jesse Schwab. Civil service laws specify that at least two captains must make application to take the examination before a test can be held, board members stated. Because only one request has been filed, the next examination for police chief will be open to lieutenants as well as captains, it was explained.

It was announced today that the temporary appointment of Capt. Paul Whipp will be confirmed as permanent, as will the lieutenancy of Eugene E. Hartnett.

Captain John Miller, senior officer of the force and, as such, assistant chief, today assumed Bates' duties as chief during the temporary absence of the department head.

DATE UNCERTAIN

M'Nutt Says Time For Calling Fathers Still in Doubt.

WASHINGTON—(AP)—The date for drafting married men with children today is still uncertain in the opinion of War Manpower Commissioner Paul V. McNutt.

Asked at a press conference about the possibility that fathers might be drafted about the middle of the year, McNutt said: "I don't think it would be wise to excite men with children by naming a date no one can be certain of."

He said the size of the armed forces would be one factor in determining the date. The WMC chief promised, however, that men with children would be given "as much notice as possible, and have an element of certainty in it."

Some draft boards have been calling married men without children since early December and most have notified such registrants that reclassification is under way.

FDR ORDERS STRIKERS BACK TO COAL MINES

sary steps to protect the security of the nation against a strike which is doing serious injury to the war effort."

(In previous disputes, involving labor and management, the military has taken over and supervised continued production.)

The 20-day-old strike in the Pennsylvania hard coal fields has involved members of some 25 local unions. They have been demanding a $2 a day wage increase and cancellation of a 50-cents a month increase in which dues were raised from $1.00 to $1.50.

The president's order for the strikers to return to their jobs followed the War Labor Board's action yesterday in bringing to the White House a report on its efforts to end the strike. The board suggested that Mr. Roosevelt "proceed with such action as you deem proper."

The president's assurance that, unless his back-to-work order was complied with, there would follow government steps to protect the country could lead to government seizure of the mines' operation.

Back-to-Work Movement Gains

WILKES-BARRE, Pa.— (INS) — With 2,700 employes of the Hudson Coal company scheduled to return to the mines today a "back-to-work" movement gained momentum in northeastern Pennsylvania's anthracite fields to end the 20-day old wildcat strike.

The action of the Hudson company's Eddy Creek, Grassy Island and Miles Slope collieries in the Olyphant district to return to work closely followed a similar move by the south Wilkes-Barre local of the United Mine Workers, one of the key locals leading the strike.

day. Ordinarily 200 persons are scheduled for each day to permit shrinkage.

All efforts are being expended by the committee to assure the mobile unit the required quota and to prevent any re-occurence of the shortage caused both in November and December when between 40 and 70 persons who had signed a donation card failed to appear each day.

The mobile unit will take up its cutomary station at the Donation Center located in Bethany House of the First Presbyterian church Thursday at 2:45 p. m. when the first appointment is scheduled. The service Thursday will close at 6:45 p. m. and be resumed Friday at 10:45 a. m. Donation hours close Friday at 3:45 p. m.

Appeals of the county blood donor committee to all volunteers to keep their appointments was added to by a personal appeal made by a Mansfield service man now in England.

In a letter addressed to his father, Sgt. Jack Frank, asked that his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Frank, 579 Maple street, urge everyone they knew to volunteer for the blood donor service.

"It's so important and the plasma is so badly needed," wrote Frank.

Volunteer services such as the Women's Motor Corps, Staff Assistance, Nurses' Aide and canteen committee will be on hand to aid both days at the donation center. The canteen committee will dispense fruit juices and sandwiches while the Motor Corps will supply transportation if it is desired.

INDUSTRIAL OIL RATION SLASHED

OPA Orders 40 Per Cent Cut In Eastern States.

WASHINGTON —(INS)— Commercial, industrial and governmental users of fuel oil for non-heating purposes in the 17 eastern states today were subjected to a 40 per cent cut in their rations as result of OP's latest move to balance petroleum supply and demand in the shortage zone.

The order is effective for the first three months of 1943. It follows a 10 per cent reduction in fuel oil heating rations of householders, a 25 per cent slash to commercial buildings, a one-gallon cut in the value of all gasoline ration coupons and a ban on pleasure driving along the Atlantic seaboard.

sible need of such housing facilities by depot construction workers.

It passed an emergency ordinance, providing for inspection of all trailers located within the city limits by Street Commissioner Guy McClane, who was authorized to issue permits for their placement, at a cost of $2 each. The ordinance also stipulated that 1,000 square feet of ground must be allowed for each trailer when parked on a lot, and that no trailer may remain on a city street for more than three hours out of each 24.

Mayor W. R. Morris and Wilbur Workman will serve as a committee to check possible sites for trailer camps. City officials revealed that several inquiries had been received concerning sites.

Council had expected to have the full report of a water survey, made by the H. P. Jones company, a Toledo engineering firm, but the report did not reach officials in time.

However, a lengthy letter, embodying some of the survey findings was presented, and council took no action on the report, adjourning its meeting until tomorrow night, when the report is expected to be on hand.

The report, said the preliminary letter, will recommend construction of a dam across Blackfork near the south city limits, which would impound about 1,800,000 gallons of water, backing up the river for a distance of about a mile, but not over bank height at any one place.

It also recommended an upground storage reservoir to hold about 50,000,000 gallons of water, and a 16-inch pipeline running from it to the municipal pumping plant.

The estimated cost was $165,000 and Mayor Morris indicated that the city might seek federal aid on the project.

Such a project, according to the engineering firm, would assure sufficient water to all industries and the air depot as well.

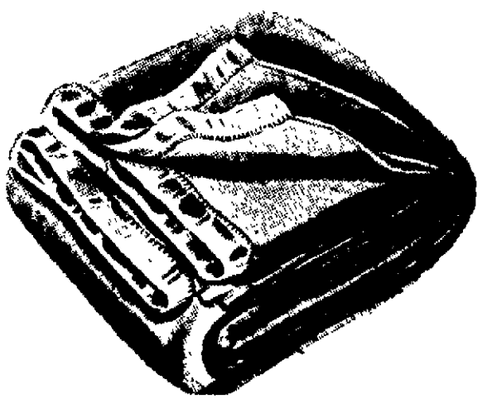

Chief complaint of Shelby industrialists had been that construction of the air depot would jeopardize the supply available to Shelby plants, most of which are engaged in war work.

Army engineers, who had two surveys made, countered that "there will be enough water" and asserted that it was not the army's practice to undertake projects that would imperil war industries.

Everywhere except in Heaven, liberty is impossible without a police force.

Prediction by an ordnance expert: "The days of the tank are numbered." appears to have no connection with the present shortage of supplies at state liquor stores.

It would be a neat gesture for Eddie Flynn to find a place on his staff for Harry Bridges, who would thus be given an opportunity to visit his native Australia.

Income Taxes Will Hit Hard

CONGRESS is moving so slowly toward a "pay-as-you-go" income tax plan that it now seems quite unlikely any change in procedure can be made effective between now and March 15—the final date for making returns on last year's income and also the time to pay the first quarterly installment.

Demand for a pay-as-you-go plan has been growing steadily in recent months and observers believe that some variation of the so-called "Ruml plan" will eventually be enacted—but that the idea of cancelling last year's income tax bill is not considered practicable.

It is argued for the Ruml plan that it would not actually deprive the treasury of any money—that it would be simply a change in bookkeeping procedure.

Quarterly payment of income taxes seemed to meet the situation nicely during the years when the tax was comparatively small and only a few million persons had earnings sufficient to require payment.

Now it is much different, however, and reduction in exemptions, with increased earnings, has placed additional millions on the roll of income taxpayers.

Not all of these have taken the trouble to find out just how much their income tax obligation will be, and it is estimated that at least several million will approach March 15 without having put aside enough money to meet the first quarterly installment.

Whether income taxes to be paid during this year are CALLED taxes on the 1942 or the 1943 income seems relatively unimportant, as the idea in either instance appears to be that the taxes are to be up to the limit of individual ability to pay.

If returns can be made in the usual way, before March 15, based on 1942 income, and payments placed on a monthly basis for ten installments extending to December 15, the immediate problem would seem to be solved.

Then, if the 5 per cent additional Victory tax, now being withheld from wages and salaries, could be increased and made to apply on the current year's income taxes, approach to a pay-as-you-go plan would be made.

Meanwhile, the best suggestion that can be offered is to get an idea of what your income tax obligation will be on March 15, based on 1942 earnings, and to be in readiness to pay at least the first quarterly installment by that date.

Winter's Troublesome Problems

AT THIS TIME of year even people who really like winter get rather tired of it. Just as the top snow, growing dirty and sticky, shows signs of melting and cleaning up, another snowfall comes along. Dampness from the slight thaw freezes and the new snow is laid on a film of slippery ice, hard to drive on and almost impossible to walk on with safe footing.

It becomes more tiresome to shovel the coal, bring in the wood, or watch the oil tank. Enough fuel for this week? That's something. But when the wind howls there is apprehension. Will there be more coal? How fast the woodpile goes down! How many oil coupons are left? Will they last through the cold weather?

In the South, with no winter, and with growing seasons long, it's as surprising to have short foods as in the North to have short fuel. But that's war.

The experience is new to most Americans. There has always been enough of everything in this rich land. If a person didn't get his fair share, it was because of some human fault, perhaps his own, or some accident beyond foreknowing.

Many people, this wide world over, have never known anything else but want and apprehension over food, fuel and the other needs of life. This little taste of trouble may give the American people a new sympathy for suffering nations It gives them, too, a new and stronger determination that these needless miseries shall not occur again.

Those Unsliced Loaves of Bread

SOME of Mansfield's older housewives are probably getting a quiet chuckle out of the hullabaloo over bakers being forbidden to slice bread for home use.

They'll remember—some of them at least—when it was common practice to not only slice bread at home, but also to bake it there, and rumors are to the effect that even now Grandma occasionally mixes up a "batch of dough" and delights the family with a few loaves of home-made bread.

"Baker's bread" was one of the early manifestations of a trend toward lightening housework, and the slicing idea came along much later as an added convenience.

It's true, of course, that all home-made bread didn't turn out well, and it is also true that loaves were sometimes terribly mutilated in slicing.

Not forgetting the story of the bride who told hubby there'd be no bread for breakfast, because the loaf delivered by the grocer wasn't sliced.

Made Famous By Message

THE MAN who carried the "Message to Garcia" is dead at 85. Col. Andrew Summers Rowan was ordered by President McKinley, just before the Spanish American war in 1898, to get in touch with Garcia, leader of the Cuban rebels, did so and, much to his surprise, became famous. His fame was largely due to an article by Elbert Hubbard, praising Rowan and contrasting his quiet efficiency with the indifference and half-heartedness shown by too many employes.

The theme was likely to appeal to business executives, and they ordered copies of the "Message to Garcia" in great numbers. The New York Central railroad alone took 1,500,000. Copies are still given to Boy Scouts and Marines. All in all, it is estimated that 80 million copies have been sold, and it is still selling at the rate of 150,000 copies a year.

The father who succeeded by "burning the midnight oil" has a son who is quite content to burn the midnight gasoline.

BASIC TRAINING FOR ROOKIE CONGRESSMEN

Realize Japs are Toughest Foes

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—Japan's fighting capacity was badly underestimated by the United Nations, it is now becoming pretty generally recognized in Washington and probably at the capitals of the other democratic countries.

China, to be sure, is an exception. After five years of warfare, the Chinese have been under no misapprehension. Americans and Britons, however, were considerably belated in making their discoveries.

Nobody ever suspected the Japs of any lack of courage. As combatants they are outright suicidal. Their competency at utilizing it has been questioned, though.

And it has been taken for granted that, limited to their rather restricted archipelago, they must be decidedly cramped for resources to conduct prolonged hostilities.

The Occidental account has been, for years, to the purport that Nippon, while a first-rate imitator of western improvements, both military and miscellaneously industrial, adopted them not overly understandingly. For instance, years ago, when I visited the islands, a highly ornamental line of transpacific Japanese passenger craft was in service. Folk were well fed, comfortably accommodated and the discipline was admirable. The Japs are good servants all right. That point wasn't disputed.

But those boats were officered exclusively by Europeans or Americans.

I asked the captain (a Yankee) to explain it to me.

"Well, you see," he said, "to a landsman's naked eye these Jap-made tubs appear perfectly admirable, but it takes an expert to keep them floating right side up."

The Great Delusion?

Such, in that day, was the general verdict of all Occidental residents in the Far East, concerning everything Oriental—all deceivingly imitationary.

Maybe it was Occidental prejudice.

Or maybe the Orientals learned their lesson and are up-to-date now.

Anyhow, there are no Occidental misapprehensions at the current writing.

Indeed, it's quite a consensus that Japan may be harder to finish off than Germany.

Italy doesn't signify. It is agreed that she will fold up as soon as she realizes that Axis defeat is certain. The Germans know when they are licked, too, as previously has been demonstrated.

Japan, it is conceded, is liable to be far more difficult.

For one item, it has geographical advantages. She can be outclassed at sea, but it is not so easy to lick her ashore. Besides being intrinsically scrappy, she is far more efficient than was anticipated. Japan is not nearly as purely imitative as was surmised. Furthermore, she has made gains that put it largely upon an independent basis.

Joseph C. Grew, our ex-ambassador to Tokyo, has rubbed this idea into Washington for all he is worth.

Grew's getting attention now.

Our Chief Foe.

It is a matter of some consequence to Britain, but still more so to the United States.

Phychology figures in the equation.

So does geography.

Britain can take its time in dealing with the Jap threat against its Oriental possessions; our interests won't wait. We've got those Philippines to consider. Washington is full of Filipinos, hollering for help.

The theory is that Herr Hitler is the first miscreant to be smashed.

Perhaps. But that doesn't reckon with Premier Tojo of Japan. Emperor Hirohito is a mere figurehead. Tojo is the head of the comparatively few militarists who boss the job. There aren't many of them proportionately, but they are in supreme authority. Long after the main war is finished, they can keep it going indefinitely.

They don't care a hoot for the Axis; Japan is what they are fighting for.

Listen World!

Real Rationing

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

SHE'S grouching about the new rationing. I grin, remembering when we didn't have anything else but—only no one called it by that name.

Way back when the west was "wild and wooly and full of fleas—never been curried above its knees"—you can bet your last drop of gas that most of us didn't revel in five course dinners. But I'll remember "supper time" at home when all the banquets have been forgotten.

Coming home, with the salt fog folding in a blind wall around you and the wild geese honking high overhead. Feeling your way through the black adobe mud. Then the ruddy square of the kitchen window—and after you'd cleaned your shoes at the scraper, the big warm shabby room beyond with the fire crackling in the stove and the kerosene lamps all aglow.

How many loaves of bread had been baked in that room? How many acres of gingerbread passed through the oven door? How many jars of apple butter had left their space in its old beams? I cannot guess. But it smelled as no other room ever has or ever will . . . unless it be some specially blessed cozy corner in Paradise.

No grand linen on that supper table—no old crystal or tricky silver. But rosy faces clustering thicker than peas around the red and white checked cloth . . . watching like hungry young wolves as mom cut great squares of fresh baked corn meal bread, smothered in molasses. Squares of corn meal and syrup, with an apple to top it off—that was the stuff that tackled and won the far west.

Or it might be "hash browned potatoes with country gravy." Cubes of salt pork simmered slowly until they were crackling crisp, creamed into gravy with milk and flour—ladled over mounds of fried potatoes. With quince preserves for dessert. Or "floating island"—tapioca pudding. Or hot gingerbread with mugs of milk. Or, in the spring, young mustard greens boiled with pork. Turnip tops. And now and then, for a treat, a slice of bacon.

Later, thanks to the teaching of our Spanish neighbors, huge bowls of that dish still unknown to New England—"a salad." Not that eastern horror of lettuce leaves dipped in vinegar and sprinkled with sugar, but piles of sturdy roots, crinkling greens, scarlet slices of tomatoes, soaked for an hour in olive oil, onion, garlic and old wine vinegar—eaten with fresh torn hunks of newly made bread.

Many a night, just bowls of milk and crackers with apple sauce. Soup plates of oatmeal mush for breakfast. Boiled cabbage and ham scraps. But whatever there was, we took it and liked it. No youngster toyed with his vittals then.

Meat? Yes, we had it, sometimes. Meat that would nicely serve for synthetic tires today. Heaven only knows what animal accumulated those great haunches of beef we had on occasional Sundays when The Minister came to dinner — and we children were taken aside and cautioned not to ask for a second helping. But generally one huge bowl or platter held all the makings of a meal. And the five of us managed to struggle to near or over the six foot mark without ever having heard of vitamins.

As for canned stuff, unless it was "home made," the woman who indulged in such extravagant fancies was little better than a slattern. The bride of 1903 who, come fall, couldn't display her hundreds of jars and crocks of jellies, jams, preserves, "rhubarb shrub," and pickles was the village goat.

And now we look at our empty shelves and call it "rationing."

Ain't it something. Maybe we needed a war to smack us down!

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Friday, Jan. 19, 1923.

Freedom council No. 63, Jr. O. U. A. M. observed 33rd anniversary of its institution.

It was noted that few Mansfielders moved on Friday, because of "bad luck" superstition.

William E. Wright, 54, died at his home, 550 Springmill street.

Lon Chaney in "A Blind Bargain" was screen attraction at the Majestic.

Daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Savene, 13 Dunbill court.

Miss Harriet Swetland, former Y. W. C. A. secretary here, planned to take similar work at Honolulu.

Party was given for Mary Ann Pavell, Lexington avenue, on her third birthday anniversary.

TODAY IN HISTORY

James Watt, the inventor was born on this date in 1736. Among his great inventions, perhaps his greatest is the steam engine.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

Mix Them With Brains.

A visitor was viewing the work of the English painter, John Opie. Enthusiastic about the fresh, vigorous coloring, he inquired:

"With what extraordinary ingredient do you mix your pigments so as to make your colors so unique?"

"I mix them with my brains, sir," replied Opie.

There is column upon column in the newspapers about the commodities to be used in the manufacture of synthetic rubber—petroleum, alcohol, corn, grain, coal—but hardly a stickful about the chief ingredient of this, as of all mixtures—brains.

Fortunately, this element has been supplied in good measure; with Baruch, Compton and Conant supplying the grey matter, we will get good rubber.

Interpreting the War News

Russian Advance Toward Rostov Imperils Nazi Army In Caucasus

—By LOUIS F. KEEMLE

THE GERMAN situation in southern Russia appears to be becoming rapidly desperate on the basis of latest Soviet communiques.

From just south of Voronezh on the upper Don to a point east of Armavir in the north Caucasus the Russians are advancing steadily, regaining territory taken by the Germans at terrific cost and depriving them of important rail communications.

The position of the German army before Stalingrad seems hopeless, according to Russian information. The battle of Stalingrad, one of the epics of this war, is likely to end in the annihilation or capture of the big army which Hitler boasted was certain to take the city.

Of the 22 German divisions totalling between 200,000 and 300,000 men which started the siege, only about 50,000 to 70,000 are estimated to be left. These, having refused to surrender, are being wiped out, the Russians say.

If so, it is the greatest blow Hitler has ever suffered. Not only has he undergone a staggering loss in men and material, but the elimination of this army will free a large Soviet force to join in the march on Rostov at the mouth of the Don.

The big German army in the Caucasus, especially that part of it east of Armavir and from Novorissisk on the Black sea coast to the Maikop oil fields, is gravely imperilled by the Russian drive for Rostov.

If Rostov falls to the Russians, this army will be cut off completely from lines of supply and will be in the same position as the army at Stalingrad The latter had hoped to hold out until spring through air transport supply, but it doesn't appear to have worked. The problem of supplying an army spread over a much greater area in the Caucasus would be even more impracticable.

THE RUSSIANS are so close to Rostov that they stand a chance to take it at the present rate of progress, before the German army in the Caucasus can extricate itself.

North of Rostov, the Russian force which skirted the railroad junction of Millerovo is only 60 miles from the city. Now the Russians have taken Millerovo, where the railroad branches off and crosses the Donets to Vorishilovgrad and Stalino.

East of Rostov, the Russians are driving rapidly westward from the Kalmuck steppes. To the southeast, they are nearing the railroad junction of Salsk, 100 miles from the city.

At the northern end of their 550-mile offensive line in southern Russia, the Red army is presenting a distinct threat to Kharkov, center of a network of railroads serving the Donets basin and the eastern Ukraine.

The Russians still have a long, hard way to go to recover the Ukraine and threaten Germany itself through Poland, but Hitler evidently has considered the possibility.

POLISH sources in London report that the Germans have built a heavily-fortified corridor 80 miles wide separating the eastern and western half of Poland. The Germans are also reported to be extending this line from southern Poland through Hungary to the Carpathians.

Such preparations suggest that Hitler envisages the possibility of having an eastern front this year or next on his own threshold.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — As the new congress settles down to work, the income tax pay-as-you-go bandwagon is becoming heavily freighted and Capitol Hill observers are giving heavy odds that something will be done about it before the first 1942 payment becomes due March 15.

This would mean dropping entirely the 1942 tax and collection at the source of a certain percentage of the income. At the end of the year, an adjustment would be made equalizing the tax on all earnings.

Don't get the idea that you will pay any less to Uncle Sam. The treasury's collections will be just as much in 1943 as if you were paying on your 1942 tax, perhaps more (since incomes are steadily mounting). But it would equalize the tax on a month-to-month basis, spread it over the year, and provide relief for the man whose income suddenly collapses due to inability to work or loss of job.

THE pay-as-you-go plan was first proposed in a senate finance committee hearing by Beardsley Ruml, New York financier and treasurer of one of the nation's largest department stores. The Ruml plan was something of a bombshell and it has been exploding at intervals ever since. The treasury department at first hit the ceiling, but Secretary Morgenthau and his aides now favor the plan in a modified form, their main point of difference with the all-out advocates being only the extent to which (or percentage of) the surtaxes are to be deferred.

Since in the matter of taxes, the treasury proposes, and congress deposes, most differences such as this are unimportant. A compromise is considered certain because Senator George (D.-Ga.), chairman of the senate finance committee, is keen for a pay-as-you-go plan and would like to see it passed before March 15; and Representative Doughton (D.-N.C.), chairman of the house ways and means committee, has announced that he is studying ways to defer part or all of the 1942 tax.

Several members of both committees have bills in the offing, and Republicans and Democrats are not far apart on some adaptation of the Ruml suggestion.

IF THE new bills are amendments to the 1942 bill, they will involve 1942 incomes and can be passed before the first quarter due-date March 15. If they are incorporated in the 1943 tax bill, it's likely that they will become effective before March 15, probably not before the June 15 payment is due.

The figure most often referred to at the moment is 15 per cent. Less than that might result in a greater readjustment payment due at the end of the year. More in some instances, could possibly result in the treasury's having to pay out small sums to compensate for overpayments.

Timely Editorial

Paper Saving.

Specifically exempted from the government order curtailing paper used in commercial printing are local and federal agencies of government.

This probably is necessary. Nothing must be permitted to handicap the operation of government in this critical period.

However, other users of paper are going to howl to high heaven if they continue to encounter some of the incredibly wasteful practices of government agencies, such as distribution of week-old press releases in huge envelopes made of special stock, broadcasting information that could have no other purpose than employment of some of the thousands of jobholders who should be put to work, and the printing in great numbers of pamphlets that no rational citizen would think of reading.

Government should have the right to do what seems to it to be necessary, but it shouldn't make the mistake of doing things that clearly are unnecessary—not when it is asking every citizen to cut and trim for the sake of the war. —Canton Repository.

Everyday Poem

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

My House.

I want this house to be my own.
In every part of it
I want my dreams, myself to speak
And where you stand or sit

I hope that you will feel you are
In my house; that it shows
Me, that the chairs, books, rugs, each one
Some part of me disclose.

I would not want to own a house
That nondescript could be
The house of anyone. My house
My personality

Must tell, so that there is no chance
That you would ever doubt
This is my home or fail to feel
Me everywhere about.

Dave Boone Says:

I CAN'T figure out just why a lot of the boys dishing out stuff for the OPA estimate public intelligence to be so low, unless it's a Washington habit. They've just issued some advice on keeping the house warmer, and here are a few suggestions:

1 Stuff a rug against the door at night.
2. Dress warmer indoors.
3. Wear flannel night clothes.
4. Fold a newspaper and put it along the window sill to keep out cold.

* * *

If there's anybody in America born without brains enough to do those things he couldn't keep warm anyhow. Those have been commonsense rules on this continent for hundreds of years. If we're paying anybody to turn out hints like that at this late day we should stuff a rug around the public treasury.

* * *

OPA, by the way, has issued some new fuel oil rules and one of 'em says that customers located beyond a certain uniform distance may be refused delivery. This makes it swell for anybody who rented a house a little off the main line after first contacting an oil man and getting assurance that he was well within delivery limits.

* * *

I wish Mr. Brown would get in there and take over. The folks are so confused and exasperated that they're beginning to crack up mentally.

A Farmer's Diary

The Ant Hill

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I HAVE often wondered what goes on in the largest ant nest on the slope. This has a southeast exposure and it seems the snow melts more quickly there than any place. Here the winter sun shines most of the day and these creatures "down under" are more active than the same tribe in the swamp below the barn.

One afternoon I went up with the ax to cut wood. As I went by this large tenement I saw several insects crawl stiffly about. I watched two that could not find the entrance, and after a time stood stiff and motionless.

I forced the sharp bit of the ax down through a narrow edge of the ant house, at the south, and pulled it away. I had sliced through a many-storied apartment but tunnels and open spaces were at irregular levels. Cold weather had slowed the life, but still there was activity.

At one place, beneath the surface of the soil, some stored wheat grains and numerous other seeds had clean white sprouts. Others showed a hint of green. I thrust a finger deep into the spongy mass. It seemed warmer than outside—perhaps from fermentation of some form of plant life.

This colony was located in the midst of my peach trees. To the ants, the plant lice that ruin the foliage and fruit of the orchard stand as herds of dairy cattle do to the human race. They imprison the lice and stroke them with their anty feelers so that they exude drops of "milk." During 24 hours a single individual has been observed to yield 48 drops of liquid. Where is the highest record cow that would produce in that proportion?

While this is life and luxury for ants, I know that during the spring and summer, my trees will be visited by countless hordes of tiny insects. No matter if I should spray with nicotine sulphate—if I could buy it—still, these ants would have some extra thousands of pests stored away for their own future needs.

I stood by, this winter afternoon, and marveled at the miraculous organization of an ant hill—slaves were there, nurses to care for youngsters, builders, engineers, housemaids and even farmers—for they plant wild rice and other grains — sentries, spies and a standing army. Sometimes they go to war for plunder—but there is no lack of unity at home.

"Go to the ant, thou sluggard—consider her ways . . ."

SOLDIERS HAVE KANGAROO SOUP

SOMEWHERE IN AUSTRALIA —(INS)— With doughboys stationed in Australia's back country, kangaroo hunting is the favorite (and only) recreation.

It is a profitable one, for the hides make beautiful rugs, while soup made from the powerful tail is a real delicacy.

Major Monroe Bloomenstiel, of Rochester, N. Y., claims the biggest 'roo yet bagged: it measured 10 feet from nose to tail.

His unit had soup for a week.

NEW TRANSPORT PLANE

LONDON —(INS)— A new German transport plane, reported to be in use for bringing artillery and munitions right up to the front line in Russia, is believed here to be a rebuilt glider, similar to the Gotha GO 242. Italian press descriptions of the plane stress the heavy loads it can carry and its ability to land "in about 100 yards on any type of ground."

SOHIO'S WARTIME CALENDAR FOR CAR OWNERS

To help keep you straight on ration dates and other things of importance to your Car

LAST day to use your No. 3 gas coupons!

Just a reminder—in case you're lucky enough to have any coupons left. Under the rationing regulations, all gasoline coupons marked with the number 3 expire at midnight, Jan. 21, and we dealers can't accept them after that time.

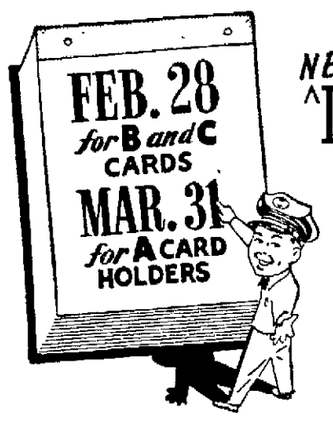

TIME for an oil change and lube job, too!

Now that you're driving slower and making just short trips, you probably figure that you don't have to pay so much attention to changing oil and having your car greased. But it doesn't work out that way. You see, nowadays your motor doesn't get hot enough to boil off the moisture that's formed when the gas burns, so a lot more water stays in the motor oil, increasing sludge and other harmful substances.

Also the lubricants that protect the chassis get hard and stiff and dirty—are affected by time, as well as mileage.

So the only safe thing is to change oil and have your car lubricated regularly—every time you change to a new coupon number. And it's wise to insist on products and service you know are dependable—SOHIO Motor Oil and famous SOHIO Point-by-Point Lubrication.

NEW DEADLINE for first official O. P. A. tire inspection

The whole idea of Mileage Rationing is to keep our cars running. That's why the regulations require regular tire inspection at an Official O. P. A. Inspection Station.

These Official Inspections help spot trouble before it gets serious. The important thing is to get the inspections during the periods when they're required. Otherwise, even though you're eligible for tires, you won't be able to get them—or gas either.

AVOID the rush! Have your tires inspected NOW!

Save time, trouble and gas by going to your nearby SOHIO Station displaying the SOHIO Tire Inspection Banner!

CONVENIENT SOHIO DEALERS AND STATIONS ARE SET UP TO HANDLE ALL YOUR TIRE PROBLEMS

Most SOHIO Dealers and Service Stations are authorized as Official Tire Inspection Stations. Wherever you go, there's always one handy. You'll find it more convenient to go to SOHIO because, in addition to official inspection, SOHIO Stations are equipped to take care of all your other tire needs. This saves you time, trouble and gas. Drive in today and avoid the last-minute rush!

Official O. P. A. Tire Inspection — Tire Repairs — All Classes of Tires (including famous, long-wearing ATLAS Pre-War Tires and the new War Tires.) — Skilled Retreading Service — Expert Tire-Saving Service

"SOHIO'S So Handy—Everything in One Stop"

MORE FREE SOHIO RATION BOOK HOLDERS WILL BE READY SOON!

Soon now there will be plenty of these handy ration book and tire inspection record holders available at Sohio. Free, of course. The first quarter-of-a-million went like hot cakes and we've had to reorder. So, if you will be patient for a few days, there will be one for you just for the asking. Your Sohio Dealer wants you to have one because it protects these important papers . . . and you always know just where they are. Don't forget to ask.

Today your car is just as much a part of America's Fighting Force as our ships or our railroads. It is transportation that America needs to win! We're ready to help in every possible way to keep your car running!

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, TUESDAY, JANUARY 19, 1943.

Everywhere except in Heaven, liberty is impossible without a police force.

Prediction by an ordnance expert: "The days of the tank are numbered." appears to have no connection with the present shortage of supplies at state liquor stores.

It would be a neat gesture for Eddie Flynn to find a place on his staff for Harry Bridges, who would thus be given an opportunity to visit his native Australia.

Income Taxes Will Hit Hard

CONGRESS is moving so slowly toward a "pay-as-you-go" income tax plan that it now seems quite unlikely any change in procedure can be made effective between now and March 15—the final date for making returns on last year's income and also the time to pay the first quarterly installment.

Demand for a pay-as-you-go plan has been growing steadily in recent months and observers believe that some variation of the so-called "Ruml plan" will eventually be enacted—but that the idea of cancelling last year's income tax bill is not considered practicable.

It is argued for the Ruml plan that it would not actually deprive the treasury of any money—that it would be simply a change in bookkeeping procedure.

Quarterly payment of income taxes seemed to meet the situation nicely during the years when the tax was comparatively small and only a few million persons had earnings sufficient to require payment.

Now it is much different, however, and reduction in exemptions, with increased earnings, has placed additional millions on the roll of income taxpayers.

Not all of these have taken the trouble to find out just how much their income tax obligation will be, and it is estimated that at least several million will approach March 15 without having put aside enough money to meet the first quarterly installment.

Whether income taxes to be paid during this year are CALLED taxes on the 1942 or the 1943 income seems relatively unimportant, as the idea in either instance appears to be that the taxes are to be up to the limit of individual ability to pay.

If returns can be made in the usual way, before March 15, based on 1942 income, and payments placed on a monthly basis for ten installments extending to December 15, the immediate problem would seem to be solved.

Then, if the 5 per cent additional Victory tax, now being withheld from wages and salaries, could be increased and made to apply on the current year's income taxes, approach to a pay-as-you-go plan would be made.

Meanwhile, the best suggestion that can be offered is to get an idea of what your income tax obligation will be on March 15, based on 1942 earnings, and to be in readiness to pay at least the first quarterly installment by that date.

Winter's Troublesome Problems

AT THIS TIME of year even people who really like winter get rather tired of it. Just as the top snow, growing dirty and sticky, shows signs of melting and cleaning up, another snowfall comes along. Dampness from the slight thaw freezes and the new snow is laid on a film of slippery ice, hard to drive on and almost impossible to walk on with safe footing.

It becomes more tiresome to shovel the coal, bring in the wood, or watch the oil tank. Enough fuel for this week? That's something. But when the wind howls there is apprehension. Will there be more coal? How fast the woodpile goes down! How many oil coupons are left? Will they last through the cold weather?

In the South, with no winter, and with growing seasons long, it's as surprising to have short foods as in the North to have short fuel. But that's war.

The experience is new to most Americans. There has always been enough of everything in this rich land. If a person didn't get his fair share, it was because of some human fault, perhaps his own, or some accident beyond foreknowing.

Many people, this wide world over, have never known anything else but want and apprehension over food, fuel and the other needs of life. This little taste of trouble may give the American people a new sympathy for suffering nations. It gives them, too, a new and stronger determination that these needless miseries shall not occur again.

Those Unsliced Loaves of Bread

SOME of Mansfield's older housewives are probably getting a quiet chuckle out of the hullabaloo over bakers being forbidden to slice bread for home use.

They'll remember—some of them at least—when it was common practice to not only slice bread at home, but also to bake it there, and rumors are to the effect that even now Grandma occasionally mixes up a "batch of dough" and delights the family with a few loaves of home-made bread.

"Baker's bread" was one of the early manifestations of a trend toward lightening housework, and the slicing idea came along much later as an added convenience.

It's true, of course, that all home-made bread didn't turn out well, and it is also true that loaves were sometimes terribly mutilated in slicing.

Not forgetting the story of the bride who told hubby there'd be no bread for breakfast, because the loaf delivered by the grocer wasn't sliced.

Made Famous By Message

THE MAN who carried the "Message to Garcia" is dead at 85. Col. Andrew Summers Rowan was ordered by President McKinley, just before the Spanish American war in 1898, to get in touch with Garcia, leader of the Cuban rebels, did so and, much to his surprise, became famous. His fame was largely due to an article by Elbert Hubbard, praising Rowan and contrasting his quiet efficiency with the indifference and half-heartedness shown by too many employes.

The theme was likely to appeal to business executives, and they ordered copies of the "Message to Garcia" in great numbers. The New York Central railroad alone took 1,500,000. Copies are still given to Boy Scouts and Marines. All in all, it is estimated that 80 million copies have been sold, and it is still selling at the rate of 150,000 copies a year.

The father who succeeded by "burning the midnight oil" has a son who is quite content to burn the midnight gasoline.

BASIC TRAINING FOR ROOKIE CONGRESSMEN

Realize Japs are Toughest Foes

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—Japan's fighting capacity was badly underestimated by the United Nations, it is now becoming pretty generally recognized in Washington and probably at the capitals of the other democratic countries.

China, to be sure, is an exception. After five years of warfare, the Chinese have been under no misapprehension. Americans and Britons, however, were considerably belated in making their discoveries.

Nobody ever suspected the Japs of any lack of courage. As combatants they are outright suicidal. Their competency at utilizing it has been questioned, though.

And it has been taken for granted that, limited to their rather restricted archipelago, they must be decidedly cramped for resources to conduct prolonged hostilities.

The Occidental account has been, for years, to the purport that Nippon, while a first-rate imitator of western improvements, both military and miscellaneously industrial, adopted them not overly understandingly. For instance, years ago, when I visited the islands, a highly ornamental line of transpacific Japanese passenger craft was in service. Folk were well fed, comfortably accommodated and the discipline was admirable. The Japs are good servants all right. That point wasn't disputed.

But those boats were officered exclusively by Europeans or Americans.

I asked the captain (a Yankee) to explain it to me.

"Well, you see," he said, "to a landsman's naked eye these Japmade tubs appear perfectly admirable, but it takes an expert to keep them floating right side up."

The Great Delusion?

Such, in that day, was the general verdict of all Occidental residents in the Far East, concerning everything Oriental—all deceivingly imitationary.

Maybe it was Occidental prejudice.

Or maybe the Orientals learned their lesson and are up-to-date now.

Anyhow, there are no Occidental misapprehensions at the current writing.

Indeed, it's quite a consensus that Japan may be harder to finish off than Germany.

Italy doesn't signify. It is agreed that she will fold up as soon as she realizes that Axis defeat is certain. The Germans know when they are licked, too, as previously has been demonstrated.

Japan, it is conceded, is liable to be far more difficult.

For one item, it has geographical advantages. She can be outclassed at sea, but it is not so easy to lick her ashore. Besides being intrinsically scrappy, she is far more efficient than was anticipated. Japan is not nearly as purely imitative as was surmised. Furthermore, she has made gains that put it largely upon an independent basis.

Joseph C. Grew, our ex-ambassador to Tokyo, has rubbed this idea into Washington for all he is worth.

Grew's getting attention now.

Our Chief Foe.

It is a matter of some consequence to Britain, but still more so to the United States.

Phychology figures in the equation.

So does geography.

Britain can take its time in dealing with the Jap threat against its Oriental possessions; our interests won't wait. We've got those Philippines to consider. Washington is full of Filipinos, hollering for help.

The theory is that Herr Hitler is the first miscreant to be smashed.

Perhaps. But that doesn't reckon with Premier Tojo of Japan. Emperor Hirohito is a mere figurehead. Tojo is the head of the comparatively few militarists who boss the job. There aren't many of them proportionately, but they are in supreme authority. Long after the main war is finished, they can keep it going indefinitely.

They don't care a hoot for the Axis; Japan is what they are fighting for.

Listen World!

Real Rationing

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

SHE'S grouching about the new rationing. I grin, remembering when we didn't have anything else but—only no one called it by that name.

Way back when the west was "wild and wooly and full of fleas—never been curried above its knees"—you can bet your last drop of gas that most of us didn't revel in five course dinners. But I'll remember "supper time" at home when all the banquets have been forgotten.

Coming home, with the salt fog folding in a blind wall around you and the wild geese honking high overhead. Feeling your way through the black adobe mud. Then the ruddy square of the kitchen window—and after you'd cleaned your shoes at the scraper, the big warm shabby room beyond with the fire crackling in the stove and the kerosene lamps all aglow.

How many loaves of bread had been baked in that room? How many acres of gingerbread passed through the oven door? How many jars of apple butter had left their spice in its old beams? I cannot guess. But it smelled as no other room ever has or ever will . . . unless it be some specially blessed cozy corner in Paradise.

No grand linen on that supper table—no old crystal or tricky silver. But rosy faces clustering thicker than peas around the red and white checked cloth . . . watching like hungry young wolves as mom cut great squares of fresh baked corn meal bread, smothered in molasses. Squares of corn meal and syrup, with an apple to top it off—that was the stuff that tackled and won the far west.

Or it might be "hash browned potatoes with country gravy." Cubes of salt pork simmered slowly until they were crackling crisp, creamed into gravy with milk and flour — ladled over mounds of fried potatoes. With quince preserves for dessert. Or "floating island" — tapioca pudding. Or hot gingerbread with mugs of milk. Or, in the spring, young mustard greens boiled with pork. Turnip tops. And now and then, for a treat, a slice of bacon.

Later, thanks to the teaching of our Spanish neighbors, huge bowls of that dish still unknown to New England—"a salad." Not that eastern horror of lettuce leaves dipped in vinegar and sprinkled with sugar, but piles of sturdy roots, crunkling greens, scarlet slices of tomatoes, soaked for an hour in olive oil, onion, garlic and old wine vinegar—eaten with fresh torn hunks of newly made bread.

Many a night, just bowls of milk and crackers with apple sauce. Soup plates of oatmeal mush for breakfast. Boiled cabbage and ham scraps. But whatever there was, we took it and liked it. No youngster toyed with his vittals then.

Meat? Yes, we had it, sometimes. Meat that would nicely serve for synthetic tires today. Heaven only knows what animal accumulated those great haunches of beef we had on occasional Sundays when The Minister came to dinner — and we children were taken aside and cautioned not to ask for a second helping. But generally one huge bowl or platter held all the makings of a meal. And the five of us managed to struggle to near or over the six foot mark without ever having heard of vitamins.

As for canned stuff, unless it was "home made," the woman who indulged in such extravagant fancies was little better than a slattern. The brute of 1903 who, come fall, couldn't display her hundreds of jars and crocks of jellies, jams, preserves, "rhubarb shrub," and pickles was the village goat.

And now we look at our empty shelves and call it "rationing!"

Ain't it something. Maybe we needed a war to smack us down!

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Friday, Jan. 19, 1923.

Freedom council No. 63, Jr. O. U. A. M. observed 33rd anniversary of its institution.

It was noted that few Mansfielders moved on Friday, because of "bad luck" superstition.

William F. Wright, 54, died at his home, 550 Springmill street.

Lon Chaney in "A Blind Bargain" was screen attraction at the Majestic.

Daughter was born to Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Savene, 13 Dunbill court.

Miss Harriet Swetland, former Y. W. C. A. secretary here, planned to take similar work at Honolulu.

Party was given for Mary Ann Pavell, Lexington avenue, on her third birthday anniversary.

TODAY IN HISTORY

James Watt, the inventor, was born on this date in 1736. Among his great inventions, perhaps his greatest is the steam engine.

How It Started

—By JEAN NEWTON

Mix Them With Brains.

A visitor was viewing the work of the English painter, John Opie. Enthusiastic about the fresh, vigorous coloring, he inquired:

"With what extraordinary ingredient do you mix your pigments so as to make your colors so unique?"

"I mix them with my brains, sir," replied Opie.

There is column upon column in the newspapers about the commodities to be used in the manufacture of synthetic rubber—petroleum, alcohol, corn, grain, coal—but hardly a stickful about the chief ingredient of this, as of all mixtures—brains.

Fortunately, this element has been supplied in good measure; with Baruch, Compton and Conant supplying the grey matter, we will get good rubber.

Interpreting the War News

Russian Advance Toward Rostov Imperils Nazi Army In Caucasus

—By LOUIS F. KEEMLE

THE GERMAN situation in southern Russia appears to be becoming rapidly desperate on the basis of latest Soviet communiques.

From just south of Voronezh on the upper Don to a point east of Armavir in the north Caucasus the Russians are advancing steadily, regaining territory taken by the Germans at terrific cost and depriving them of important rail communications.

The position of the German army before Stalingrad seems hopeless, according to Russian information. The battle of Stalingrad, one of the epics of this war, is likely to end in the annihilation or capture of the big army which Hitler boasted was certain to take the city.

Of the 22 German divisions totalling between 200,000 and 300,000 men which started the siege, only about 50,000 to 70,000 are estimated to be left. These, having refused to surrender, are being wiped out, the Russians say.

If so, it is the greatest blow Hitler has ever suffered. Not only has he undergone a staggering loss in men and material, but the elimination of this army will free a large Soviet force to join in the march on Rostov at the mouth of the Don.

The big German army in the Caucasus, especially that part of it east of Armavir and from Novorissisk on the Black sea coast to the Maikop oil fields, is gravely imperilled by the Russian drive for Rostov.

If Rostov falls to the Russians, this army will be cut off completely from lines of supply and will be in the same position as the army at Stalingrad. The latter had hoped to hold out until spring through air transport supply, but it doesn't appear to have worked. The problem of supplying an army spread over a much greater area in the Caucasus would be even more impracticable.

THE RUSSIANS are so close to Rostov that they stand a chance to take it at the present rate of progress, before the German army in the Caucasus can extricate itself.

North of Rostov, the Russian force which skirted the railroad junction of Millerovo is only 60 miles from the city. Now the Russians have taken Millerovo, where the railroad branches off and crosses the Donets to Vorishilovgrad and Stalino.

East of Rostov, the Russians are driving rapidly westward from the Kalmuck steppes. To the southeast, they are nearing the railroad junction of Salsk, 100 miles from the city.

At the northern end of their 550-mile offensive line in southern Russia, the Red army is presenting a distinct threat to Kharkov, center of a network of railroads serving the Donets basin and the eastern Ukraine.

The Russians still have a long, hard way to go to recover the Ukraine and threaten Germany itself through Poland, but Hitler evidently has considered the possibility.

POLISH sources in London report that the Germans have built a heavily-fortified corridor 80 miles wide separating the eastern and western half of Poland. The Germans are also reported to be extending this line from southern Poland through Hungary to the Carpathians.

Such preparations suggest that Hitler envisages the possibility of having an eastern front this year or next on his own threshold.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON — As the new congress settles down to work, the income tax pay-as-you-go bandwagon is becoming heavily freighted and Capitol Hill observers are giving heavy odds that something will be done about it before the first 1942 payment becomes due March 15.

This would mean dropping entirely the 1942 tax and collection at the source of a certain percentage of the income. At the end of the year, an adjustment would be made equalizing the tax on all earnings.

Don't get the idea that you will pay any less to Uncle Sam. The treasury's collections will be just as much in 1943 as if you were paying on your 1942 tax, perhaps more (since incomes are steadily mounting). But it would equalize the tax on a month-to-month basis, spread it over the year, and provide relief for the man whose income suddenly collapses due to inability to work or loss of job.

THE pay-as-you-go plan was first proposed in a senate finance committee hearing by Beardsley Ruml, New York financier and treasurer of one of the nation's largest department stores. The Ruml plan was something of a bombshell and it has been exploding at intervals ever since. The treasury department at first hit the ceiling, but Secretary Morgenthau and his aides now favor the plan in a modified form, their main point of difference with the all-out advocates being only the extent to which (or percentage of) the surtaxes are to be deferred.

Since in the matter of taxes, the treasury proposes, and congress deposes, most differences such as this are unimportant. A compromise is considered certain because Senator George (D.-Ga.), chairman of the senate finance committee, is keen for a pay-as-you-go plan and would like to see it passed before March 15; and Representative Doughton (D.-N.C.), chairman of the house ways and means committee, has announced that he is studying ways to defer part or all of the 1942 tax.

Several members of both committees have bills in the offing, and Republicans and Democrats are not far apart on some adaptation of the Ruml suggestion.

IF THE new bills are amendments to the 1942 bill, they will involve 1942 incomes and can be passed before the first quarter due-date March 15. If they are incorporated in the 1943 tax bill, it's likely that they will become effective before March 15, probably not before the June 15 payment is due.

The figure most often referred to at the moment is 15 per cent. Less than that might result in a greater readjustment payment due at the end of the year. More in some instances, could possibly result in the treasury's having to pay out small sums to compensate for overpayments.

Timely Editorial

Paper Saving.

Specifically exempted from the government order curtailing paper used in commercial printing are local and federal agencies of government.

This probably is necessary. Nothing must be permitted to handicap the operation of government in this critical period.

However, other users of paper are going to howl to high heaven if they continue to encounter some of the incredibly wasteful practices of government agencies, such as distribution of week-old press releases in huge envelopes made of special stock, broadcasting information that could have no other purpose than employment of some of the thousands of jobholders who should be put to work, and the printing in great numbers of pamphlets that no rational citizen would think of reading.

Government should have the right to do what seems to it to be necessary, but it shouldn't make the mistake of doing things that clearly are unnecessary—not when it is asking every citizen to cut and trim for the sake of the war. —Canton Repository.

And where you stand or sit

I hope that you will feel you are
In my house; that it shows
Me, that the chairs, books, rugs, each one
Some part of me disclose.

I would not want to own a house
That nondescript could be
The house of anyone. My house
My personality

Must tell, so that there is no chance
That you would ever doubt
This is my home or fail to feel
Me everywhere about.

Dave Boone Says:

I CAN'T figure out just why a lot of the boys dishing out stuff for the OPA estimate public intelligence to be so low, unless it's a Washington habit. They've just issued some advice on keeping the house warmer, and here are a few suggestions:

1. Stuff a rug against the door at night.
2. Dress warmer indoors.
3. Wear flannel night clothes.
4. Fold a newspaper and put it along the window sill to keep out cold.

If there's anybody in America born without brains enough to do those things he couldn't keep warm anyhow. Those have been commonsense rules on this continent for hundreds of years. If we're paying anybody to turn out hints like that at this late day we should stuff a rug around the public treasury.

OPA, by the way, has issued some new fuel oil rules and one of 'em says that customers located beyond a certain uniform distance may be refused delivery. This makes it swell for anybody who rented a house a little off the main line after first contacting an oil man and getting assurance that he was well within delivery limits.

I wish Mr. Brown would get in there and take over. The folks are so confused and exasperated that they're beginning to crack up mentally.

A Farmer's Diary

The Ant Hill

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

I HAVE often wondered what goes on in the largest ant nest on the slope. This has a southeast exposure and it seems the snow melts more quickly there than any place. Here the winter sun shines most of the day and these creatures "down under" are more active than the same tribe in the swamp below the barn.

One afternoon I went up with the ax to cut wood. As I went by this large tenement I saw several insects crawl stiffly about. I watched two that could not find the entrance, and after a time stood stiff and motionless.

I forced the sharp bit of the ax down through a narrow edge of the ant house, at the south, and pulled it away. I had sliced through a many-storied apartment but tunnels and open spaces were at irregular levels. Cold weather had slowed the life, but still there was activity.

At one place, beneath the surface of the soil, some stored wheat grains and numerous other seeds had clean white sprouts. Others showed a hint of green. I thrust a finger deep into the spongy mass. It seemed warmer than outside—perhaps from fermentation of some form of plant life.

This colony was located in the midst of my peach trees. To the ants, the plant lice that ruin the foliage and fruit of the orchard stand as herds of dairy cattle do to the human race. They imprison the lice and stroke them with their anty feelers so that they exude drops of "milk." During 24 hours a single individual has been observed to yield 48 drops of liquid. Where is the highest record cow that would produce in that proportion?

While this is life and luxury for ants, I know that during the spring and summer, my trees will be visited by countless hordes of tiny insects. No matter if I should spray with nicotine sulphate—if I could buy it—still, these ants would have some extra thousands of pests stored away for their own future needs.

I stood by, this winter afternoon, and marveled at the miraculous organization of an ant hill—slaves were there, nurses to care for youngsters, builders, engineers, housemaids and even farmers—for they plant wild rice and other grains — sentries, spies and a standing army. Sometimes they go to war for plunder—but there is no lack of unity at home.

"Go to the ant, thou sluggard—consider her ways . . ."
